TONIGHT'S GAME

UNLV

FOSTER ANDERSEN

CSLA Coach

Tonight will be the third “Season Opener” for UNLV. The Rebels, 0-2, opened their season two weeks ago by losing to Western Illinois, 35-28, and then lost to Boise State, 36-16, in Boise's opener last weekend in Boise.

Cal State, Los Angeles, will open the season tonight with this game with the Rebels. Last year the Diablos were 2-8 under their first-year head coach Foster Andersen and things are looking up in the Diablo camp.

CSLA should come out passing as they have an excellent quarterback in Jimmy Sander, a junior college All-America at Harbor College in 1969.

UNLV is hoping to re-group after two opening losses to strong football teams. Against both teams the Rebels got behind early, 21-0 to WIU and 30-0 to BSC, and were forced to play catch up ball. The Rebels have been out-scored 30-0 in first quarter action this year, but a most positive sign is that they never give up and almost pulled it out against Western Illinois.

The Rebels ran up 500 yards in total offense against Boise (who had 445) displaying a team that can move the ball as UNLV is averaging 430 total yards a game this year.

Tonight is Rebel Ed Castro’s 21st birthday. A junior, he wears Number 78.

Against Western Illinois junior quarterback Sonny Brasile was player of the week while senior linebacker Mike Lee received the honor against Boise State.

UNLV has had some 12 injuries thus far, but a determined and confident team should be on the Astro-Turf tonight.

* Homecoming Game
Ever wonder how the game of football evolved? It certainly has come a long way in the 103 years that it has been played in American colleges.

As a matter of fact it wasn't until the 20th century that the game had any uniform rules. In the latter part of the 19th century, American college students began to play their version of English "football." The sport ranked right along side bar-room brawling and wrestling as a form of recreation.

Due to this lack of rules intercollegiate competition developed slowly, until 1869 when Rutgers faced off against Princeton in what is now considered the first real college football game. Rutgers won that only game of the year and the Associated Press and United Press International voted them number one and of course it was the only year Rutgers ever had bumper stickers saying "Rutgers #1."

The first football conference was the American Intercollegiate Football Association, formed in 1876. The schools involved were Rutgers ("We're number one"), Princeton, Columbia, Yale and Harvard. A game then lasted 90 minutes and teams were composed of 15 players. It wasn't until 1880 that Walter Camp changed the number of players to 11, thus making it easier for every play-by-play announcer in the country to remember players names.

At that time the game was one of brute strength until the turn of the century. Blocking and tackling were crude and very rough. The flying wedge formation did nothing to preserve arms or legs and naturally there were no rules against grabbing the face mask. In fact in 1905 eighteen players were killed and 159 seriously injured during the season. Therefore it is easy to see why football has the great mass appeal it enjoys today.

Now some more terrific trivia:
1. Before the legendary Duke, John Wayne became a movie star he was a star in sports. Which sport and where?
2. Joe Palooka was the greatest heavyweight of all times. Who portrayed Palooka in the movies?
3. In 1949 Jimmy Stewart starred as a baseball pitcher who lost a leg, but came back to pitch again. What was the name of the flick?
4. In the Broadway play, "Damn Yankees," what position did Shoes Malone play for the Washington Senators?
5. What football team holds the record for most number of consecutive victories?
6. What National League baseball team holds the record for most number of pennants won?
7. The United States has invented two team sports now played internationally. What are they?
8. UCLA has dominated college basketball recently. Which team, however, had the first seven foot player in college history?
9. Bud Palmer now stars behind a mike for ABC television. Where did he gain fame originally?
10. Who is the first UNLV football player to make it on a NFL team?

UNLV Scene
BY MARK HUGHES, UNLV INFORMATION DIRECTOR

More than 6,000 students are attending classes this fall at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, according to the latest figures just released on the campus.

This means that enrollment at UNLV has jumped anotber six per cent over last year at this time - roughly twice the national growth rate at universities around the country.

But big enrollment leaps are nothing new for UNLV.
Fifteen years ago, when the first class of 300 students start-ted courses on a pretty barren Maryland Parkway site, no one dreamed that the tiny branch campus would blossom to soo into a major state university. But it happened anyway.

It's been the same story for about everything at UNLV - academic programs, building facilities . . . and football.

The biggest change, however, is the football team's move to Cashman Field. It's hard to conceive that four years ago the Rebels fielded their first team at Cashman Field.

And the most impressive fact is the fact that, despite the 10-1-1 team, there's no mention of football.

Not many will venture a guess at what the future will bring to UNLV in the classrooms or on the playing fields.

But if past achievements are any indication, there is greatness in the wind for sure.
In 1924, Walter Camp named him on his All-America team. In 1943, UCLA, under his coaching, made their first appearance in the Rose Bowl. In 1965, after courageously undergoing an extremely delicate brain surgery for Parkinson's Disease, he was named "Patient of the Year." In 1980, he was named to football's Hall of Fame.

Such a man as Babe Horrell. Sports has produced many notable heirs, yet a select few rate a salute as champion among champions ... and they stand tall. Horrell belongs.

Moved to Pasadena
Now 70, Horrell was born in Jackson, Mo. When three, his family moved to Pasadena, a city which has figured prominently in his life. The Horrell Field, then Pasadena High School's practice area was named after him and his four football-playing brothers Bill, Cam, Steve and John.

As a prep, Horrell was an All-Southern California football choice at center beside lettermen in basketball, track (shot put, discus, high jump) and his four football-playing brothers hence the nickname Babe. Horrell did not play in the Rose Bowl. In 1969, he was named to football's Hall of Fame.

... and they stand tall. Horrell being named to football's Hall of Fame. In 1965, after courageously undergoing an extremely delicate brain surgery for Parkinson's Disease, he was named "Patient of the Year." In 1980, he was named to football's Hall of Fame.

BASE HORRELL
All-American in 1924

Delicate Surgery
Above his left eye at the top of his skull a calcified lump six inches to the pia mater region at the brain's base dura to deposit a pure alcohol solution. The less demanding freeze method, now used, was discovered later. Control of his right arm was the objective. The operation took two hours. The following week, Horrell underwent similar surgery from the right side.

Inspiring success ensued. He was able to shave, cut his steak, and dress in ten minutes. Now, Babe frequently plays several sets of tennis doubles at one outing. He also drives his car 20,000 miles a year. His long-standing courage to his fellowmen, was named Patient of the Year in 1985 by the United Parkinson Foundation. That is Edwin Chilton Horrell, the man and the Babe, an All-American both on and off the field.

Football season! Yikes! Most All-American team than you can shake a "sheaf of experts" at.

We have the Associated Press All America, the United Press International All America, the Newspaper Enterprise All America, the Sporting News All America, the Kruskal All America, the Ortho News All America and even, (spam choices), the Playboy All America, is mention a few.

But, alas, all these teams list just football players. How insincere to the people who really deserve credit. The people who make watching football bearable to the fan in the stands. The people who still not dogs and hamburgers

The Review Journal's John Moser is responsible (and legally at fault, if a lawsuit should follow) for the first annual "Associated Pressing United International Consensus Enterprise All America Snack Bar and Vending Team for 1972.

The Review Journal's John Moser is responsible (and legally at fault, if a lawsuit should follow) for the first annual "Associated Pressing United International Consensus Enterprise All America Snack Bar and Vending Team for 1972.

Here are some of the stars on this year's squad:

HARRY HERNYA - One of the most reliable merchandise vendors on Miami Coast, Henry climbed 96 rows in Los Angeles Coliseum during Rams - 49-ers game only to discover - he was asking Breedie not dog and wasn't want anything to eat, Nov. 29, 1964.

R.K. "LUNGS" YELLISHOUT - Holds Atlantic Coast Conference record few across larger number of rows, 47. Also noted for causing confusion whenilling team was calling audible at line of scrimmage and right end and tight end were not sure which player knew ever to do an "Props, 20 cents!"

GRIMELDA "BUNS" McGAHR - Switched to cotton candy after three successful conquest at hamburgers. Grimelda raised eyebrows when she connected for sale across largest number of rows, 47. Also noted for causing confusion when calling audible at line of scrimmage and right end and tight end were not sure which player knew ever to do an "Props, 20 cents!"

SLICE & DICE BURPENBELCH - Noted for his ability to intimidate the non-consumers, Slice & Dice once pucked up from Aisles to lure prospective buyers by parachuting into the stadium with a packet of tailer's skinny guy who wasn't particularly hungry.

SUDS BURPENBELCH - Noted for his ability to intimidate the non-consumers, Slice & Dice once pucked up from Aisles to lure prospective buyers by parachuting into the stadium with a packet of tailer's skinny guy who wasn't particularly hungry.

BURLY BEEFBLASTER - Noted for his ability to intimidate the non-consumers, Slice & Dice once pucked up from Aisles to lure prospective buyers by parachuting into the stadium with a packet of tailer's skinny guy who wasn't particularly hungry.

JILES TUMBLEFARTHER - Claimant to the modern regular-seasom rec of falling upon 24 state with a full line of Colosse and never spilling a drop, Nov. 15, 1971.
