ABOUT THE HOLIDAY CLASSIC

BY PETE PETERS

Review-Journal Associate Sports Editor

If you love basketball, enjoy the electricity in the air during a tournament and like to root for the underdog . . . then you have come to the right place.

Nevada Southern’s Holiday Classic has furnished local fans a lot of thrills, surprises and good basketball in the two previous tournaments. It’s 8-5 that this tourney will do likewise.

Let’s look back.

In 1961 we saw one of the nation’s strongest teams, Orange State win the championship by defeating Cal Poly of Pomona, 80-73. Edgar Clark, who was as graceful as a ballet dancer performing at Carnegie Hall, led the Titans with a tourney high of 29 points.

In 1962 we saw the darkhorse, Occidental, edge a small but strong Whittier quintet, 68-66, in two overtimes for the title. Whittier’s Tom Freese, a 5-10 guard, was perhaps the best player to appear in this tourney. He scored 25 and 22 points in the Poets’ two games.

Nevada Southern won the consolation crowns both years and, strangely enough, toppled Cal Western both times. The Westerners are defense-minded and each year are one of the college teams in the country.

Oxy and Cal Western are back this year. New to the tournament is New Mexico Highlands, another tough club.

Southern’s Holiday Classic is already one of the West’s top small college tournaments. It is because of the potent competition provided and the good sportsmanship on the court.

You will see this these next two nights.

NEVADA SOUTHERN -- GROWING WITH SOUTHERN NEVADA

Located on a 163-acre plot at 4505 Maryland Parkway, Las Vegas, Nevada Southern will help the Silver State celebrate its Centennial in gala style in 1964 with its very first graduating class in three academic fields -- education, business administration and arts and science.

From a modest beginning in 1951 when classes were first organized in buildings operated by the Las Vegas public school system, to today's modern, mushrooming campus in Paradise Valley, Nevada Southern is expanding rapidly to meet the educational needs of Southern Nevadans.

The Southern Regional Division was authorized by the Board of Regents in 1955. In June of 1957, Maude Frazier Hall, housing Humanities and Administration, was first opened. This was followed in the summer of 1959 by A. C. Grant Hall, more classrooms, office space and a little theater. Health and physical education facilities including a gymnasium, were readied in the spring of 1961.

With additional emphasis on science, the Science Technology building was opened in the fall of 1961, the same time that the Radiological Lab, only building of this type west of the Mississippi River on a college campus, was completed. A $682,500 library, complete with 30,000 carefully selected volumes, opened its doors in January of this year. A four-building addition to the "Rad Lab" plus dormitory and dining facilities and a Social Science building are due for completion by next fall.

Nevada Southern, a fully accredited part of the University of Nevada, now has 1,037 matriculated students to go with 54 full-time instructors.

The stature of this year's Nevada Southern Holiday Classic has been increased with the addition for the first time of four senior high school basketball teams of the Clark County School District as another cooperative venture between Nevada Southern and the District.

Las Vegas, Rancho, Western and Basic High Schools added local interest to the Classic at the Convention Center which will also be the site of the state playoff of Nevada's best 12 prep squads next March.

Basic (1956, '59) and Las Vegas (1958, '60) have accounted for four state titles in the last eight years with Rancho winning in 1961 and Western in 1962, the last time the event was staged in Las Vegas.

All of these teams figure to be in the thick of the Southern Conference large school race which opens in early January. The winner of this tournament will be installed as the conference favorite in a chase that could well go down to the wire and which probably won't be settled until the zone qualifying event in which the two finalists advance into the state playoff.

Trophies, sanctioned by the Nevada Interscholastic League, will be presented to the winner and runner-up following the championship game Saturday night.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON — Luther and Lee White, Benny Thrower, Las Vegas; Emmett Molisee and Gregory (Skip) Mead, Western; Tex Anthony and Chuck Eaholtz, Rancho; Bob Fieldson and Denny England, Basic.

ABOUT THE CONVENTION CENTER

Las Vegas' futuristic Convention Center has played a large role in the recent emergence of our community as an international sports center. Major events which have taken place there have put the Las Vegas datapoint on the sports pages of every newspaper in the world.

The flexibility of the mammoth $6.5 million structure has made it adaptable to practically every type of indoor sporting event... and some which would normally be held outdoors.

Perhaps the major event of the past year was the Liston-Patterson heavyweight title fight last July. Other contests of national or international status included the Hotel Sahara Fast Draw and Archery contests, the International Gin Rummy Tournament and, most recently, the International Roller Skating Championship.

While the latter event required the installation of a special hardwood floor, over night tons of specially-prepared soil can be brought into the rotunda to set it up for equestrian events. Recently the Center housed the Clark County Sheriff's Posse Rodeo and the Sahara Miss Rodeo America Pageant, and before them the Intermountain Quarter Horse Assn. show and the All-Arabian Horse show.

The Center has been the site of basketball games, community fairs, circuses, concerts, pageants and, of course, conventions and exhibits of all sizes.

Last September it drew a capacity crowd to hear an address by President John F. Kennedy, and the Center has housed banquets involving more than 5,000 persons for a single meal.

Under the futuristic dome of the Convention Center sits the most advanced auditorium in the world — with complete air conditioning, portable stages, projection booth, closed circuit television facilities, modern public address and communications systems, banquet service and plush seating for 8,500 people.

The 1964 convention schedule includes the Lions International, District 4; the National Automobile Dealers Assn.; the American Society of Oral Surgeons and the National Exchange Club. These alone should attract more than 50,000 persons to Las Vegas.

Conventions in the past few years have included those of the American Legion, American Academy of General Practice, U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, American Mining Congress, National Council of Catholic Women and the U. S. Air Force Association.

At the Center there are all the rooms and facilities necessary to handle a major event: 90,000 square feet of exhibition space, 17 meeting rooms of all sizes, a potential of over two million square feet of outdoor exhibit space and parking facilities for 9,500 cars.
