TONIGHT’S GAME

UNLV
VS
U. WISCONSIN, MILWAUKEE

RON MEYER
UNLV Coach

National football prominence at UNLV has arrived. In this week’s UPI and AP polls, the Rebels are rated No. 10 and No. 13, respectively, among the nation’s small college football teams.

This day of reckoning was inevitable. Following the first season in 1968 when then Head Coach Bill Ireland’s Rebels went 8-1, the stage was set. Now, five years since UNLV began its gridiron program, Ron Meyer has risen UNLV to a good deal of its potential, the result speaking for itself.

UNLV is 5-1, coming into tonight’s Homecoming game clash against an underrated University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee eleven. The Rebels have marched through the following opponents—State College of Arkansas (38-6), Cal State, Los Angeles (42-6), Marshall University (31-9), Northeast Louisiana University (26-0), and last weekend powerful Boise State College fell, 24-19. The solo blemish on what is truly the finest Rebel team ever is a heart-breaking 7-3 loss to major college Utah State University.

UWM, with a student body enrollment of nearly 22,000, comes into tonight’s tussle with an impressive 4-1-1 record. The only loss came from past Rebel foe Western Illinois, 28-3, while the tie was 21-21 against Northern Michigan. The Panther pushovers have been Illinois State (34-29), Eastern Illinois (21-14), Missouri at Rolla (45-7) and Indiana - Chicago Circle (32-0).

UNLV respects every opponent they meet, but fears none of them. The Rebels have a young, enthusiastic team, with young, determined coaches and the extreme cohesiveness of this band of Rebels, belies the connotations of its’ monicker.

Rather, it has been these diversified backgrounds that have been joined together into Meyer’s Marauders.

Leading the Rebel offense thrust is former University of Oklahoma running back Mike Thomas. This gutsy Greenie (Tex.) griddler has pounded the Astro-Turf for a record-breaking 785 yards on 146 attempts for a 5.4 per carry average and 10 touchdowns. He is currently third in the nation in rushing and add in his one touchdown, and No. 13, respectively, among the nation's small college football teams.

Individuals Thomas’ 785 yards is a new entire season mark and Jim Thayer’s five field goals ties the mark he set a year ago. And, of course there are five games left this year, including tonight.

FUTURE REBEL FOES DID LAST WEEKEND:

Hawaii (4-0) was idle; Santa Clara (2-3) 27, U. Nevada, Reno (4-2) 14; Northern Arizona (2-3) 28; Texas Lutheran 14.

The Pride, Poise, and Confidence that the Rebels have shown both offensively and defensively is exemplified readily in the statistics for the season.

The Rebels are averaging 227.8 yards a game in total offense and scoring an average of 27.3 points per game while the Big Red defense is holding opponents to 218.5 yards per game and giving up only 8.0 points each game.

Without any projection to the possible number of team and individual records that this Rebel team is setting, suffice it to say how many have already been broken. Four team single-game records have now fallen, one more has been tied and individually another four single-game records are new and another is tied.

HEAD COACH: Ronald Meyer (Purdue – 1963) (702) 739-3400
ATHLETIC DIRECTOR: Bill Ireland (702) 739-3483

Radio and television have changed the way of life for Americans over the past 50 years. They have brought the world into living rooms and have made history an actual part of our everyday lives. Everything from the greatest moments of our time to the most trivial are paraded non-stop across the screen or blared out from the speaker.

When radio first became a real part of the American scene in the 1930's, it was regarded as somewhat of a toy. It wasn't until radio began to bring events into homes that they actually happened that people felt the impact of the medium. The Hindenberg disaster was one of the first such events and certainly the most memorable. Anyone who has ever heard the announcer calmly describing the landing of the big airships in New York, only to have him suddenly break into tears as the huge aircraft burst into flames killing hundreds of persons.

It was about this same time, when people were becoming accustomed to instant reporting of news, that Orson Welles brought War of the Worlds to radio. Even though Welles warned the audience several times that the show was entirely fictional, a near panic resulted. Many people switching channels from a full piano recital, caught the "Invasion of the Martians" after the show had started. To them it was just another one of the spot news events and was taken with all seriousness. Hundreds of people jumped into cars and fled New Jersey and New York. The power of radio was dramatically demonstrated.

Television has done the same thing only more graphically. Now, instead of imagining the Martians landing, you see the real thing, with stop action and instant replay. Howard Cosell would probably be the reporter.

After three hours in hard wooden seats, spilled mustard and a roaring crowd, recuperate in Monte Carlo.

A football stadium is a great place to spend a Saturday afternoon in autumn. But, after the game, you're ready for some peace and quiet, some comfort and some elegance. That's why the Monte Carlo is a great place to spend a Saturday evening in autumn. Monte Carlo's radial-tuned suspension is designed to let you enjoy the advantages of its steel-belted radial ply tires.

The result is the kind of confident handling and comfortable ride you might expect from a fine personal luxury car. Power disc/drum brakes and variable-ratio power steering are standard, of course. Because it just wouldn't be a Monte Carlo without them.

When you're ready to leave the roaring crowd behind, pet behind the wheel of a 1974 Monte Carlo by Chevrolet.

LAS VEGAS DODGE
A Fan's Glossary
BY JOHN MOSER
R-J Sportswriter

Ron Meyer has fathered a new breed of cat -- the Las Vegas fan.
Now, this fan is vocal, enthusiastic, and turns out in record numbers to watch the best small college team in the West.

He was a little slow getting started, electing not to support UNLV until the team had won three games in a row by lopsided margins, but the fan is here now. And it looks like Las Vegas Stadium has a refreshing new permanent fixture -- people.

But wherever 12,000 or more humans congregate -- and especially in wild, wacky Las Vegas -- you run into a myriad of different personalities.

And some of the more pronounced personalities -- God and Meyer love 'em -- are categorized below:

UP AND DOWN CHARLIE -- This guy leaps up at the opening kickoff, then spends the rest of the game bouncing up and down off his seat like it was covered with hot coals. Naturally, the people behind him can't see the game, but get smart when he goes to the concession stand and spread fast-drying glue on his vacated spot.

"COACH" CLEM -- An expert on all the intricacies of football, this loud-mouthed fellow lets everyone within earshot know that the coach is a dumbkopf, and that "when I was playing, with Ara back at Notre Dame, we never ran the option that way." It turns out that his second cousin once lived next door to the Parseghians in South Bend, and he took part in a five-minute game of touch on the front lawn.

ZAPPED ZEKE -- He starts off with a couple of dollar beers in the first quarter, then determinedly goes after a "rushing" record of his own -- how many times he can rush to the restroom without having an accident.

DUDED UP DAVE -- After putting on his latest threads, this bon vivant spends his time cruising the stands, seeing how many of his old girlfriends will embarrass their dates by running down and gushing all over him. He runs into a little embarrassment himself when he gets home only to find his skin-tight pants have a foot-long rip in the rear.

GOOGLE-EYED GOGIE -- This sweet young thing likes to flip through the pages of the program with comments like "Oh, that Steve Matousek, he's so cute. Kyle Nelson looks sweet and that Ron Meyer ... wow!" while her red-faced boyfriend sits quietly with his foot in his mouth. After the game, he deposits her in the front seat of the team bus and splits.

PICK 'EM PETE -- Ejecting not to watch the game at all, this bothersome buddy -- his parlay card clutched in his hot little fist -- instead bugs sportswriters in the pressbox for scores of other night games across the country. Real teaser here comes the next morning, when he visits his bookie and finds to his surprise that he had been given bogus scores.

UNLV Scene
BY MARK HUGHES
Information Director

The Rebels may be in the top ten nationally in football. But they haven't met face-to-face yet with this year's edition of the Homecoming Powderpuff Squad. The ladies squared off in competition on the campus this week as part of the traditional Homecoming activities. Here, pictorially, is a glimpse of the Powderpuff showdown at UNLV's eighth annual Homecoming, featuring kicking, blocking and running attacks which cannot be described in words.

TRIVIA ANSWERS...
1. Jay Silverheels was the faithful Indian companion Tonto.
2. That toothy smile belongs to none other than Alfred E. Newman, presidential candidate several times over.
3. The great Groucho Marx used the name Wolf J. Flywheel in several movies.
4. Fibber and Molly lived at 77 Wistful Vista.
5. The fine former left fielder for the Chicago White Sox real name was Orestes.
6. Morty and Fergy are the famous Mickey's nephews.
7. The voice of Francis was done by Chilt Wills.
8. James Mason was the brilliant Captain Nemo.
9. Don DeFore played Ozzie's neighbor "Thorny".
10. Paladin always got his gun and traveled from the Hotel Carleton in San Francisco.

It resembled the United Nations, only on a slightly smaller scale.

As such, it contained many of the elements of that international body: hospitality, cooperation, competition, friendship, conflict, cooperation, competition.

World University Games, 1973, Moscow

AMF Supports U.S. Team
For the first time since the United States began participating in the Games in 1962 it supplied a full complement of men and women teams. This was made possible largely by a $100,000 contribution from AMF, Inc., manufacturer of leisure time and industrial equipment. Sponsoring organization of the American teams is the United States Collegiate Sports Council (USCSC), composed of elements from the National Collegiate Athletic Association, National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, National Junior College Athletic Association and the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Some 2,500 men and women representing 67 countries converged on the Soviet capital for 18 days of intense competition Aug. 14-30. The American delegation of 230 athletes and officials was second only to the host Russians in size. Jordan's one representative was the smallest contingent.

Results of the competition and the international incidents which were precipitated served to focus more than ever before on the World University Games. An estimated 1,000 press, editorial and broadcast correspondents were on hand to report the events.

The super Russian athletes made a run-away of the quest for medals, capturing a total of 134 awards, 68 gold, 36 silver and 30 bronze. America's runner-up total was 33, 19-16-18. The U.S., traditionally a power in track and field, failed to win a gold medal until the next to last event, the 4x100 relay for men. The quartet of Steve Whatley (Alabora), Wardell Galbreath (New Mexico Junior College), Larry Brown (Essex County College) and Steve Riddick (Norfolk College) set a new World Games record of 49.1 for the event.

The only other American gold in track came in the disputed 4x400 relay for men. The Russians, finished first in the event; but on the second leg, America's Darwin Bond (Tennessee) was fouled and a protest was filed. The protest was upheld, giving gold to the Americans.

The university gold medalists were Maryland's Paul Beers, UCLA's Dave Johnson of New Mexico State, University of New Mexico. (AP Photo)

AMF Supports U.S. Team
For the first time since the United States began participating in the Games in 1962 it supplied a full complement of men and women teams. This was made possible largely by a $100,000 contribution from AMF, Inc., manufacturer of leisure time and industrial equipment. Sponsoring organization of the American teams is the United States Collegiate Sports Council (USCSC), composed of elements from the National Collegiate Athletic Association, National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, National Junior College Athletic Association and the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Some 2,500 men and women representing 67 countries converged on the Soviet capital for 18 days of intense competition Aug. 14-30. The American delegation of 230 athletes and officials was second only to the host Russians in size. Jordan's one representative was the smallest contingent.

Results of the competition and the international incidents which were precipitated served to focus more than ever before on the World University Games. An estimated 1,000 press, editorial and broadcast correspondents were on hand to report the events.

The super Russian athletes made a run-away of the quest for medals, capturing a total of 134 awards, 68 gold, 36 silver and 30 bronze. America's runner-up total was 33, 19-16-18. The U.S., traditionally a power in track and field, failed to win a gold medal until the next to last event, the 4x100 relay for men. The quartet of Steve Whatley (Alabama), Wardell Galbreath (New Mexico Junior College), Larry Brown (Essex County College) and Steve Riddick (Norfolk College) set a new World Games record of 49.1 for the event.

The only other American gold in track came in the disputed 4x400 relay for men. The Russians, finished first in the event; but on the second leg, America's Darwin Bond (Tennessee) was fouled and a protest was filed. The protest was upheld, giving gold to the Americans.

The university gold medalists were Maryland's Paul Beers, UCLA's Dave Johnson of New Mexico State, University of New Mexico. (AP Photo)
