TONIGHT'S GAME

UNLV VS NORTHERN ARIZONA

By Dominic Clark
UNLV Sports Information Director

The best team in UNLV's history makes its final regular season appearance tonight on the AstroTurf of Las Vegas Stadium. Coach Ron Meyer's Rebels (7-2) are rated No. 9 in the nation by the Associated Press and No. 13 by United Press International.

Leading the Rebels to this outstanding season (a complete turn around from last year's 1-10 record) is junior All-American tailback "Mr. TD" Thomas. The 5-10, 188 pound tailback from Greenville, Texas has rolled up 1,417 yards on the ground on 218 carries for a 6.6 per carry average and he has 17 touchdowns on the ground and one more by pass reception for a record-setting 18 touchdowns this season.

As a matter of fact, every time Thomas touches the ball it means another UNLV record as he now holds every Rebel rushing single-game and season record.

Tonight's opponent is sometimes-explosive Northern Arizona University. The Lumberjacks come in with a 3-5 record with victories over Montana (14-10), Texas Lutheran (28-14) and Cal State, Northridge (77-17). NAU also has an outstanding No. 22. Jimmy Smith, who

The Best Of Trivia
BY TERRY SHOWKILER
Publicity Director – Showboat Hotel

In 1929, there was excitement everywhere in the United States. The roaring '20's were coming to an end. The St. Valentine's Day Massacre was held in Chicago, and Lt. Commander Richard Byrd flew over the South Pole. Al "Scarface" Capone was sentenced to jail, and Herbert Hoover succeeded Calvin Coolidge as President. Knute Rockne's Notre Dame was the year's national champion and construction began on the Empire State Building. And in California the movie business was making the transition from silent to sound.

In May of that year, five months before the crash of the Stock Market, about 200 members of the film industry gathered to celebrate and applaud the new Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences first award winners. It was a relaxed evening since the winners had been announced in the press three months earlier. The banquet that night, however, was totally ignored by the national press and radio.

The winner of the best picture of the year went to Wings. It was a World War I war picture about pilots, full of action, and a silent movie. Acting awards went to Emil Jannings for two performances, The Last Command and The Way of All Flesh. Janet Gaynor won for three roles, Seventh Heaven, Street Angel, and Sunrise. The practice of awarding acting roles as one award for all films of the year was a practice Jannings had left Hollywood for his home in Berlin, Germany. He was photographed with his award before he left and then hustled off to Europe.

All of the pictures honored in 1929 were silent. The top winners were Seventh Heaven and Sunrise with three awards each. Awards were presented by master of ceremonies Douglas Fairbanks in the record time of four minutes and twenty-two seconds.

There was little excitement within the movie industry over those first awards. At that time no one could foresee that this annual ceremony would become one of the major events of each year.

CHEVY SUBURBAN

It never forgets it's a tough truck. Deep in cushioning, rich upholstery fabric and vinyl. Extensive sound insulation. Wagon-type tailgate available with or without power windows.

OUR TRUCK FOR WAGON PEOPLE

It does more than a wagon can. Seats up to nine adults, all facing forward, when you order the available second and third seats. And there's still a generous cargo space behind the third seat. Suburban can move a combined weight of 4,000 lbs. That includes the weight of the Suburban, passengers, cargo and trailer.

Chevy's massive Ginder Beam front suspension and leaf rear springs are designed to help give you a smooth ride even when the road isn't.

You can order up to a $454 V8. Get all the warm-weather comfort you need, front and rear, with an available-air unit or air conditioner. Optional dual air bags are standard on the Chey Express package which matches brakes design and sew to load-carrying capacity.

If you're taking along more than a wagon, take a good look at Chevy's Suburban.

If anybody else keys on Mike Thomas, he'll be able to open up a chain of motels.

Everybody near the football field, including the popcorn salesman and parking lot attendant, knows the speedy University of Nevada, Las Vegas, tailback will be carrying the ball almost every other play.

And yet he has zipped past opponents for 1,417 yards and 110 points in nine games, and averages almost seven yards per carry.

Just how do you stop this guy?

Rebel foes have tried everything from double teaming to completely forgetting about everything else. They try to shut off the option, they stunt linemen to confuse blocking at the line of scrimmage, they mutter violent obscenities under their breath and wish voodoo hexes on him.

Thomas' only problem is that he carries the football like a hot potato. Sometimes when he shifts into second gear, the ball sticks in reverse. He sometimes tends to drop it like a bad habit.

But nevertheless, opponents are staying up past curfew to guard over possible defenses for the rapid Rebel.

Here are our suggestions:

TACKLE THE BALL -- Easily the most effective method of stopping Thomas, this one was used extensively by Hawaii and Santa Clara. But unfortunately for the Broncos, they forgot to tackle Thomas, too, and he scorched his way around for 314 yards.

PLANT LAND MINES ON THE 40 -- This nasty little ploy has its shortcomings, because you could also wipe out your own team. To insure best results, you had better sneak into the Rebel locker room before game time and plant a detonator in Thomas' shoe.

LINE UP IN REBEL BACKFIELD -- The only sure way to keep an eye on the speedy UNLV tailback, this one has a discouraging habit of drawing off-side penalties. Of course, since you can't be penalized over the goal line, it's a handy way to hold the score down and keep Thomas from having a 100-yard night.

HIRE A HEAVY TO MUG HIM IN THE PARKING LOT -- The guy for this part should be disguised as a scout for the Pittsburgh Steelers. He should have some official-looking contract papers in his coat pocket, which cleverly conceals a night stick.

Remember the last time you stood bare and defenseless before the cold nozzle of a giant x-ray machine? It took a lot of trust to twist into an awkward position and submit your body -- voluntarily -- to the zap of a zillion x-ray photons.

But relax. Chances are very good that you were in the capable hands of a technologist who learned his profession, at least in part, from Prof. Charles A. Jacobi of the University of Nevada, Las Vegas.

Jacobi might be called "Mr. X-Ray" because of all he has contributed to the modern field of radiologic technology.

He started the first radiographic technology school in the United States back in 1952 in Klamath Falls, Ore.

Since then he has written textbooks and laboratory manuals which have become the standard learning guides for a majority of the nation's colleges and hospital-based x-ray programs.

And now the program he has built during the past six years at UNLV has received the ultimate compliment by the profession.
