Student Reference: WRITING A PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT

A Public Service Announcement, also known as a PSA, is a short message that takes 30 to 60 seconds to say on radio, television, or the Internet. PSAs can also be printed in magazines, the newspaper, or even on billboards. PSAs call attention to issues that affect people's lives. They notify or warn the public about the possible consequences of an action. PSAs raise awareness. They don't sell products. Your job is to write a 30 to 60 second PSA and create a "catchy" jingle or slogan about invasive species.

WHAT DO WE KNOW?

Through your classes and your Forever Earth field trip, you have learned answers to the question, "What effects can an invasive species have on an environment?" Now, your job is to write a PSA that addresses the question, "What, if anything, can or should be done to prevent or control the introduction of an invasive species?" Working with a partner, write a 30 or 60 second public service announcement urging the public to:

- prevent the introduction of zebra mussels into Lake Mead; or
- control the spread of invasive species such as tamarisk, cheat grass, brassica, or Russian thistle.

WHAT DO WE DO?

You have already been given a handout of some catchy slogans that are part of actual PSAs. Now it's time to plan your own PSA. Consider the following tips for writing a PSA:

- Get ideas for your PSA by watching local TV and listening to local radio stations.
- Select your target audience. Appeal to their interests, e.g., boating, fishing, birding, camping, or environmental protection.
- Research your invasive species.
- Brainstorm all the possible messages about your invasive species that you could include in your PSA. Then select the most important message to get across to the listener/viewer.
- Double check your facts. It is important for your message to be accurate.

JUST DO IT! WRITE AND FINALIZE YOUR PSA

- Look for a “hook” for your PSA such as music, humor, an attention-grabbing fact, or a frightening prediction; it is important to immediately capture the attention of the listener/viewer.
- Write the copy (text) for your PSA.
- Select background music and scenery to make your message appealing.
- Test your message aloud. A PSA should be brief, clear, and dramatic: since they are 60 seconds or less, make every word count.
