Rebel Homecoming
Social Issue

Unlike, the other two organizations Rebel Homecoming does not have a social issue. I believe the festival solves social issues and brings the community together. It focuses on education and combining all the colleges into one.

Girls on the Run
Social Issue

The social issue that Girls on the Run faces is education and teaching young girls self-esteem building. Girls on the Run programs are usually in low income areas. The girls who are in this program have difficulties at home and reach to the program as a safe haven.

The Boys and Girls Club
Social Issue

Education is the biggest issues that the clubhouse. The children who attend this club are really far behind in school. Most of the children are two grade level behind what they should be at. The reason this happens is due to inconstancy, most of the children bounce from school to school.

Rebel Homecoming
Service Learning Experience

I worked as a student ambassador. Informing students about the Hospitality College and also talked to alumni about their experience after graduation.

Girls on the Run
Service Learning Experience

I helped out by participating in Gamma Phi Beta philanthropy to raise money Girl on the Run. We raised money by putting on a volleyball tournament and having other Greek Organizations participate and donate money.

The Boys and Girls Club
Service Learning Experience

I was placed in the homework room and assigned to help students with homework. The students were really struggling with the math problems. Math problems that usually takes an track student five to ten minutes were taking these kids ten to fifteen minutes, but once they understood and solved the problems they were so happy.
