NATIONAL INVITATIONAL TOURNAMENT QUARTER FINALS

UNLV Runnin Rebels vs St. Peter's College Peacocks
LAS VEGAS CONVENTION CENTER, MARCH 13, 1980
Nothing compares to fine food superbly prepared and thoroughly enjoyed. It's that satisfied feeling that comes from dining at one of the newly redecorated and reopened restaurants at the Maxim Hotel and Casino.

Get the feeling again at the Maxim's freshly remodeled Da Vinci's & Treehouse featuring the Chinese Corner. When you say great food at the Maxim, you've said a mouthful!

JUST ONE WATCH IS EQUAL TO THE CHAMPIONSHIP PACE OF A.J. F O Y T: ROLEX.

He lives and thinks at speed. In NASCAR, and worldwide. He's "King of the Brickyard" as three-time Indy winner; in his racing wake are the Daytona 500, Le Mans and $2 million in victory earnings. For A. J., there's just one watch: his hand-crafted Rolex Day-Date, an elegant, impregnable 30-jewel chronometer in 18kt. gold with matching President bracelet (1803/8385). To A. J., who designs and builds his own cars, hand-crafted performance is everything.

Jerry Tarkanian, the Runnin' Rebels have raced up and down the court for an impressive 99-7 record in the Convention Center the past six seasons against regular NCAA competition. This year, UNLV will play 17 games in the boisterous facility.

The sign hanging ominously over the rotunda floor reads, "Enter at Your Own Risk." After the swirling of the multicolored spotlights in the darkened arena to herald the introduction of the local favorites, the fireworks really begin. It is the Convention Center where the Runnin' Rebels expanded their nickname. During the 1974-75, 1975-76, and 1976-77 seasons, the Runnin' Rebels did not lose a home game. In 1976-77, UNLV pumped in 174 points in a 40-minute game.

Like its renown counterparts on the "Strip," the Convention Center "Showroom" has been virtually sold out for the past five years. Capacity crowds cheer the Rebels in comfort in the conveniently located facility, one mile east of the famed Las Vegas "Strip".

Rather homey with its limited seating capacity, UNLV enjoys playing in its home facility and established an all-time record by winning 72 straight games before being defeated by the University of New Mexico on Jan. 7, 1978 by a 102-98 score. After the swirling of the multicolored spotlights in the darkened arena to herald the introduction of the local favorites, the fireworks really begin. It is the Convention Center where the Runnin' Rebels expanded their nickname. During the 1974-75, 1975-76, and 1976-77 seasons, the Runnin' Rebels did not lose a home game. In 1976-77, UNLV pumped in 174 points in a 40-minute game.

Like its renown counterparts on the "Strip," the Convention Center "Showroom" has been virtually sold out for the past five years. Capacity crowds cheer the Rebels in comfort in the conveniently located facility, one mile east of the famed Las Vegas "Strip".

Rather homey with its limited seating capacity, UNLV enjoys playing in its home facility and established an all-time record by winning 72 straight games before being defeated by the University of New Mexico on Jan. 7, 1978 by a 102-98 score. Under head coach Jerry Tarkanian, the Runnin' Rebels have raced up and down the court for an impressive 99-7 record in the Convention Center the past six seasons against regular NCAA competition. This year, UNLV will play 17 games in the boisterous facility. The sign hanging ominously over the rotunda floor reads, "Enter at Your Own Risk." The 43rd National Invitational Tournament

Commissioner of the ECAC, and the late Hamilton H. Salmon, Jr., then chairman of the National Basketball Committee, served as advisors to the original committee.

In 1940, the Metropolitan Basketball Writers Association transferred the responsibility for administering the tournament to a group of Metropolitan New York Colleges. In the ensuing years, the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Basketball Association (MIBA) successfully kept step with the tremendous growth in college basketball interest. In 1941, the NIT field was increased from its original six teams to eight entrants; in 1949 to a dozen; in 1965 to 14, in 1968 to 16, in 1979 to 24 and this year to its full complement of 32 teams.

The "Selection Committee" was comprised of two men from the New York Herald Tribune—the late Everett B. Morris and Irving T. Marsh; two men from the New York Times—Arthur Daley and Joseph Sheehan (both deceased); Dave Eisenberg of the New York Journal-American, and Ed Dooley of the New York Sun. The late Asa S. Bushnell, then Commissioner of the ECAC, and the late Hamilton H. Salmon, Jr., then chairman of the National Basketball Committee, served as advisors to the original committee.

The Granddaddy of them all, starting in 1979, the first, second rounds, and the quarterfinals are held in sites of the participating teams and the final four are brought into New York City to play in Madison Square Garden.

This year, the semifinals and the finals will be held in the Garden on Monday, March 17 and Wednesday, March 19.

The veteran President of the NIT is Peter A. Carlesimo, the affable athletic director from Fordham University. The University of Nevada, Las Vegas, the city of Las Vegas, the city of Las Vegas and the Rebel basketball team are proud to be a part of the NIT — 1980.

Our team is hard to beat.

It's hard to beat the team that brought pride and goodwill to our community because of the fast action, thrilling brand of basketball they play on college courts throughout the country. It's hard to beat the great UNLV student body and faculty, whose outstanding academic achievements have contributed to the growth and reputation of our university.
