PRESIDENT — DR. ROBERT C. MAXSON

Robert C. Maxson assumed his duties as President of the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, on August 1, 1984.

Before coming to UNLV, President Maxson served as the Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs at University of Houston. In that capacity, he was the chief academic officer of the 45,000 student university system.

President Maxson earned his doctorate from Mississippi State University in 1970. That institution honored him as its Distinguished Alumnus in the spring of 1990. He has written two college textbooks which together have been adopted in approximately 100 universities. He has also written numerous articles which have been published in a wide variety of scholarly journals.

In 1986, President Maxson was named Man of the Year by LV The magazine of Las Vegas. He was also named Man of the Year by the National Conference of Christian and Jews in 1987, and by the American Jewish Committee in 1990. In 1989, he was awarded the prestigious Silver Lilly Award by the Easter Seal Society for his humanitarian deeds. Currently he serves on the Board of Directors of Valley Bank of Nevada and the Executive Committee of the Nevada Development Authority.

President Maxson is married and lives with his wife Sylvia in Las Vegas. Their son Todd is a graduate of the University of Texas Medical School, and their daughter Kimberly is in law school at the University of Denver.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR — DENNIS FINFROCK

Dennis Finfrock rejoined the University of Nevada, Las Vegas athletic department staff on Aug. 9, 1990, as the interim Director of the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Finfrock, 43, has been closely involved with Rebel athletics although he has not been a member of the staff since the 1982-83 academic year. For the last seven years, the Dayton, Ohio native has been the Director of the Thomas & Mack Center and the Sam Boyd Silver Bowl facilities. His administrative skills have allowed those two event sites to operate within their budget without federal or state support.

Finfrock came to UNLV in 1976 when he was named head coach of the wrestling program. In his four seasons as a Rebel coach, the wrestling program compiled an impressive dual match record of 65-22 (.747), including a 19-2 mark in 1976-77.

In 1981, Finfrock was named an assistant athletic director at UNLV, and, for two seasons, he handled the team travel arrangements for both football and men's basketball in addition to managing home events.

As a member of the UNLV athletic department, Finfrock maintained his philosophy of loyalty and commitment to academics, spurring his athletes to achieve all they could in the classroom. Even before rejoining the department this year, Finfrock always has been committed to the continual growth of the university on a national scale.

Prior to his appointment at UNLV in 1976, Finfrock was the assistant wrestling coach at Rancho High School Athletics.

During Finfrock's six-year affiliation with the International Association of Arena Managers (I.A.A.M.) he served as chair of the organization's professional development committee and is a past District VII vice president. He currently is a member of the I.A.A.M. National Board of Directors.

Finfrock also serves as a faculty member of the Ogilvie School of Public Assembly Faculty Management and recently was named to the school's Board of Regents.

Finfrock graduated from Brigham Young University in 1970 with a bachelor of science degree in zoology and minors in botany and physical education. He played football for the Cougars and was named honorable mention all-Western Athletic Conference as a defensive end his senior season as well as earning honors as a scholar-athlete.

In 1974, Finfrock received his master's degree in biology from Northern Arizona University.

Though born in Dayton, Finfrock was raised in Yuma, Ariz., and attended Yuma High School and Arizona Western Junior College. He is married to the former Kay Crabtree and has one son, Jason, 22 who is attending the University of Washington.
The last team to defeat the Runnin' Rebels before they courted the national title ... the only Big West Conference opponent to suffer season losses from UNLV -- the toughest road game the Rebels face each year. All of this characterizes the rivalry between UNLV and UC Santa Barbara.

The Gauchos entered the 1990-91 season with aspirations of remaining in the limelight and securing a spot among the nation's premier programs. Though UCSB lost the heart and soul of last year's squad with the graduation of its all-time leading scorer, Carick DeHart, and its all-time leading rebounder, Eric McArthur, the Gauchos return the nucleus of a postseason caliber team and have added to it a topnotch point guard.

Led by eight-year head coach Jerry Pimm, UC Santa Barbara is known for its aggressive defense and dominance of the glass. The 1990-91 edition of Gauchos basketball is no different as they are led inside by the workhorse duo of seniors Gary Gray and Bob Erbst.

Gray is a 6-foot-9 forward, who led all scorers with 27 points in the Rebels 86-71 victory at Santa Barbara on Jan. 21. He also led all UCSB players with nine rebounds. His work ethic is a major reason why UCSB led the Big West in rebound margin during the 1989-90 campaign.

"The improvement Gary made between his sophomore and junior seasons is proof of what one can achieve with hard work and dedication," Pimm said. "As a senior his work will continue to pay off for himself and for this team."

After a season of adjustment, Erbst has figured out how to fit into the Gauchos scheme. The 6-foot-9 forward transferred to UCSB last year after earning Pac-10 All-Freshman Team honors at USC. In the first game against the Rebels this season, Erbst suffered from foul trouble and managed just five points and three rebounds in 19 minutes of playing time.

Rounding out the Gauchos frontline is 6-foot-7 junior, forward Lucius Davis. Davis is UCSB's swingman and his offensive spark is crucial to the Gauchos' success. UCSB achieved its postseason entry last year when Davis caught fire in the second half of the season.

The make-up of UC Santa Barbara's backcourt has given the team a new look and a new dimension. With the arrival of sophomore, point guard Ray Kelly, the Gauchos have the ability to run the court better this year.

"We still play the hard defense and hit the boards," Pimm said. "But, I think we have a chance to push the ball more than last season.

Kelly, a transfer from Texas Christian University, is the quickest player in the history of UCSB basketball, and his ability to penetrate the lane and dish the ball has been a benefit to UCSB's inside players.

"Ray Kelly is very quick," Pimm said. "He is more than quick though. He is an intelligent player who, I believe, can make smart decisions on the court. He is one of the best ballhandlers we've had here. He is a pure point guard and he has the ability to make those around him better players."

Joining Kelly in the backcourt is junior Paul Johnson. The shooting guard, Johnson was held to seven points by the Rebel defense in the first meeting this season. He is the Gauchos most accurate three-point shooter and his best defensive player.

"Paul is one of our most important players," Pimm said. "He has the capability not only to be an important player on the court, but one of the team's leaders."

The Gauchos lack of depth has been a trouble spot for the 1989-90 squad. UCSB hasn't received consistent play from its bench, so even if one of the starters is not on, the lack of production is noticed.

The players which do see action fit the UCSB mold of big, strong and dedicated. Leading the way for the reserves are sophomore guard Michael Meyer and junior forward Sam Robson.

Meyer tallied 10 points in 22 minutes of action in the first meeting with UNLV this season, while Robson grabbed five rebounds in 10 minutes of playing time.

No matter what the outcome is when the teams renew their rivalry on Feb. 14 in Las Vegas, one constant will remain -- the UNLV-UCSB rivalry is one of respect and growing tradition, and is one that will last for some time.

Jerry Tarkanian

* The nation's winningest active collegiate basketball coach (by percentage)!

* Five-time Big West Conference Coach of the Year.

It all came together for Jerry Tarkanian last April 2. On an emotion-swept night in Denver, before thousands of screaming UNLV fans, all those long hours of reading and studying, of watching game films and fuzzy-cheeked high school phenoms, of chanting prayers and then putting them to practice on the court, culminated in the ultimate for the man considered by many to be the ultimate in college basketball coaches: a national championship for Jerry Tarkanian.

Then and now — The family of UNLV basketball coach Jerry Tarkanian continues to grow. Last spring, Tarkanian's youngest son, George, was married in Las Vegas. From left, his family's second-oldest daughter, Jodi Diamant; Coach Tarkanian; bride Mary Kay Tarkanian; groom George Tarkanian; Coach Tarkanian's lovely wife, Lois; eldest son Danny Tarkanian and oldest granddaughter, Pamela King. JERRY TARKANIAN

NATIONALLY PROMINENT

- Jerry Tarkanian is the nation's winningest active college basketball coach with a percentage of .8260 (565-119). He has averaged 25.7 victories per season over 22 years at the major college level.

- Tarkanian is just percentage points behind Carl Bee, the all-time winningest coach in college history. Bee ended his tenure at Long Island University and Rider College with a .8266 winning percentage, just .0006 ahead of Tarkanian. The UNLV coach led with a Bee's three-month run in 1967-68 before losing to UCLA in the Big West Conference Tournament.

- Following a 35-5 season in 1986-87, Tarkanian enters the 1990-91 campaign as the second winningest active college coach in terms of most wins with 565. North Carolina's Dean Smith is first with 685.

- Tarkanian has taken his major college teams to NCAA postseason in 15 times in 22 years, including the last eight in a row.

- Tarkanian's 15 NCAA Tournament appearances are the fourth most in NCAA history. Additionally, his string of eight consecutive NCAA Tournament appearances is the third best in tournament history.

- After 29 years at the collegiate level, Tarkanian has won seven games, an average of 7.6 victories per season.

- Tarkanian's winning percentage for his 29-year career is a staggering .673 (.777-145).

- Tarkanian has failed to win 39 or more games in a season only 3 times in his past 13 seasons and has his last team register 10 or more losses in a season.

KING OF THE BIG WEST

- Tarkanian is the winningest coach in Big West Conference history with a 12-year regular season record of 169-17. He was 40-2 in four seasons at Long Beach State and is 129-31 following eight conference seasons at UNLV.

- Tarkanian is the only coach in Big West Conference history to record 100 league victories.

- Tarkanian has won 11 regular season championships in 12 seasons as a Big West Conference coach. Last season, his Rebels tied New Mexico State for first place with a 16-2 mark.

- Tarkanian won a Big West Conference record 25 consecutive games at Long Beach State from 1967-72.

- Tarkanian has won three consecutive Big West Conference Coach of the Year awards at UNLV (1982-84) and five overall (including 1987 and 1988).

- He owns an eight-year Big West Conference Tournament record of 16-7 (.692).

into the coveted NCAA Final Four. Twice previously, he took UNLV teams to the threshold of a national title, first in 1977 when his 29-3 Rebels placed third and then 10 years later in 1987 when his 37-2 squad lost in the semi­finals to eventual national champion Indiana.

Additionally, Tarkanian-coached UNLV teams have made two National Invitational Tournament appearances.

Tarkanian has an overall postseason record of 37-18 (.673) — 26-10 in NCAA appearances at UNLV, 4-3 in NIT appearances at UNLV and 7-5 in NCAA appearances at Long Beach State, before coming to UNLV.

Prior to his successful career at UNLV, Tarkanian put Long Beach State on the college basketball map. In five seasons with the 49ers, he compiled a 116-17 (.872) record and made four trips to the NCAA Tournament. Begin­ning with the 1968-69 season and ending with his final year in 1972-73, Tarkanian never lost a home game at Long Beach State, winning a remarkable 65 consecutive games.

He also earned honors as Professor of the Year and Salesman of the Year for his efforts in promoting the university. He recently was elected to the Long Beach State Athletic Hall of Fame, an honor he cherishes deeply.

Tarkanian's coaching days began humbly at San Joaquin Memorial High School in Fresno, Calif., in 1956. He moved to Antelope Valley High School in Lancaster, Calif., in 1968 before taking positions at Redlands (Calif.) High School in 1959 and Riverside (Calif.) City College in 1961.

It was at Riverside City College that Tarkanian's collegiate coaching odys­sey began. His first season ended with a respectable 14-13 mark, but things changed quickly as Riverside went on to four straight 30-plus win seasons and four consecutive California junior college championships. He recorded a perfect 35-0 season in 1963-64 and posted a 145-22 (.648) overall mark in five seasons at Riverside.

Tarkanian then moved to Pasadena City College for two seasons beginning in 1965-67, compiling a 67-4 (.642) year mark and still another JC title. From Pasadena City College, he went on to Long Beach State, where in 1969, he began his career as a Division I coach.

Tarkanian also has coached nation­ally and internationally. He coached in Ecuador for the People-to-People Sports Committee in 1968 and coached the Junior Olympic team later the same year.

He makes his home on the basket­ball court. He is both father and teacher to the many members of his prestigous household, preaching virtues such as hard work, loyalty, commitment and discipline. He has received considerable help from his wife, Dr. Lois Tarkanian, who has been a contributor in establishing an aca­

AGGIES LOOK FOR REPEAT OF 1990

83-86. Any New Mexico State Aggie basketball fan can tell you the significance of that score. It was the first time in New Mexico State history that they had defeated a UNLV opponent in any sport, much less men's basketball where the Runnin' Rebels have dominated the Big West Conference for the past eight seasons. Before that game in Las Cruces on Jan. 6, the Rebels were 14-0 against the Aggies and had defeated them by an average of 14.3 points per game.

The Rebels did, however, extract their revenge by defeating the Aggies on Feb. 15, at the Thomas & Mack Center by a score of 109-86. That game will always be remembered by Rebel fans as the game Greg Anthony started just three days after breaking his jaw against Fresno State.

Anthony started just three days after the game. This year's tournament bid in 11 years. This year's 15-14 record and a win over UNLV in Las Cruces on Jan. 8, the Aggies have dominated the Big West Conference for the past eight seasons. Before that game in Las Cruces on Jan. 6, the Rebels were 14-0 against the Aggies and had defeated them by an average of 14.3 points per game.

The Rebels did, however, extract their revenge by defeating the Aggies on Feb. 15, at the Thomas & Mack Center by a score of 109-86. That game will always be remembered by Rebel fans as the game Greg Anthony started just three days after breaking his jaw against Fresno State and for the three-point shooting display put on by the Rebels' Anderson Hunt as he scored 31 points in the game, hitting on 14 of 14 shots from beyond the three-point arc.

The teams ended the regular season tied for first-place in the Big West with 16-2 records, and everyone was looking forward to the rubber game in the conference tournament. But it was not to be, as the Aggies were upset by Living Beach State in the semi-finals, 90-85. However, did they have the second best record in school history at 26-4 and they received their first NCAA Tournament bid in 11 years. This year's team would love to see an encore performance of last year and with seven returning lettermen, including three starters, and the addition of several quality junior college transfers, head coach Neil McCarthy has his eye on another conference championship.

"This team is very much like last year's team," he said. "We have some very good athletes, but like last year, we'll have to see if we bond well. We have to keep in mind the team concept."

The strength of the Aggies lies in their backcourt. Leading the way is first-team All-Big West point guard Randy Brown who is averaging 12.4 points and 6.7 assists per game. One of the top point guards in the nation, Brown's strength is in running the offense, dishing the ball inside and motivating his teammates on the court. William Benjamin starts at shooting guard for the Aggies. An outstanding ball handler and aggressive defender, Benjamin is scoring 11.6 points per game and is leading the Aggies in three-point shooting with a .467 percentage.

In the frontcourt the Aggies start three more players averaging in double-figures. Reggie Jordan is the team's leading scorer (15.8) and rebounder (7.6). A senior, Jordan is having the best year of his career. Michael New and junior college transfer Tracey Ware round out the starting five. New, at 6-8, is averaging 11.6 points and 7.2 rebounds for the Aggies. Ware, who McCarthy calls his most athletic big man, is scoring 11.7 points and grabbing 6.6 rebounds per game.

A well-balanced team, the Aggies have all five starters scoring in double-figures. They are also extremely deep with as many as 10 players seeing action. With such a deep, talented team, it is easy to see why the Aggies are thinking repeat, but they also know the key to the conference crown lies in Las Vegas.
A MESSAGE FROM UNLV PRESIDENT DR. ROBERT C. MAXSON

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT
November 29, 1990

Dear Friends of UNLV:

Welcome to the Thomas and Mack Center for another exciting season of Rebel basketball!

The Rebels, rated #1 this year in both AP and UPI pre-season polls, are always #1 in the hearts of our many local and national fans. The quality of play and expectations of team success are the hallmark of our 7-1 record, the quality of instruction and expectations of academic success at UNLV.

Over 12,800 students enrolled at UNLV for the fall semester of 1990, another record for our university. Once again we enrolled 40% of Nevada's 53 high school graduates, now in total on campus or approximately 130. The Honors program, now in its sixth year, has enrolled just over 22%. In that same period of time, 237 new faculty have joined the University, combining with the many distinguished faculty already here to bring our total teaching staff to over 1,000. Because of our growth, we expect to add another log faculty over the next two years. As a major Ph.D.-granting university, we have now taken our place alongside the premier academic institutions in the nation. Indeed, U.S. News and World Report once again listed UNLV in its fall guide to the top colleges and universities as one of the "up-and-coming" institutions in the nation, and first of only four in the 25 western states. UNLV has also been referred to by the magazine as a "rising star" in American higher education, a characterization we certainly agree with.

UNLV is young, proud, and growing. It will settle for nothing less than truly a University of the first class. All of us here appreciate the support all of you have given us in our quest for that excellence.

We wish the very best to the collection of wonderful young men who make up this team, and to their dedicated and talented coaches! Have a great year, guys!

Sincerely,

Robert C. Maxson

Tim Grgurich, one of the master technicians in college basketball, begins his fifth season with the UNLV basketball program. As a student at Pittsburgh, Grgurich earned a bachelor's degree in health and physical education. A graduate of Central Catholic High School in Pittsburgh, Grgurich earned four letters in varsity basketball and baseball. He attended the University of Pittsburgh, where he was a three-sport letterman in basketball and baseball. He then served for 11 seasons as an assistant coach at Pittsburgh, where he helped the Panthers to quarterfinal appearances in both the NCAA and NIT tournaments. Grgurich was appointed head coach at Baldwin in 1979 and amassed a five-year record of 79-33-33.

Ron Ganulin
Assistant Coach

Ron Ganulin begins his fourth season with the UNLV basketball program after a successful coaching career on the East Coast. Ganulin is the Rebel program's recruiting coordinator and, on the court, works extremely well with the perimeter players. As a player at Long Island, he helped the Blackbirds to three consecutive NCAA Division II Tournament appearances. His 1967 team lost in the semifinals to eventual national champion Winston-Salem State University, which was coached by Earl Monroe.

Keith Starr
Part-Time Assistant Coach

Keith Starr begins his second season with the UNLV basketball program after spending part of last year as an assistant coach at Cal State Fullerton. Overall, Starr will be in his fifth season as an assistant in the Rebel program. Starr, 36, will work extensively with the Rebels' big men. During his time with the UNLV program, the Rebels posted a 127-21 (.858) record and made four trips to the NCAA Tournament, reaching the Final Four in 1987. Starr was a premier player at the University of Pittsburgh, graduating from there in 1979. He played under current UNLV assistant coach Tim Grgurich while at Pittsburgh and was on the Panthers' 1979 NCAA Tournament team. He was drafted by the NBA's Chicago Bulls in 1979. He played briefly in the NBA. Starr was born March 14, 1956, and is a graduate of Quaker Valley High School in Sewickley, Pa. He received his bachelor of arts degree in economics from Pittsburg in 1979. He is single and enjoys reading and listening to jazz in his spare time. He is a 13-year resident of Las Vegas.

1991 LADY REBEL SOFTBALL OUTLOOK

"A Season to Remember"

Returning 12 letterwinners, including eight starting position players and two starting pitchers, from a team which tied for fifth at the College World Series, it is no wonder that the 1991 softball campaign appears to be a "season to remember" for the UNLV Lady Rebels.

Among the 12 returnees are two All-America selections and three All-West Region honorees, ensuring the Lady Rebels to the winningest season (41-27) in the nine years UNLV has fielded a softball team. Many firsts were accomplished during the 1990 season which indicate that the Lady Rebels are indeed among the nation's elite. In addition to advancing to the College World Series in their first postseason appearance and winning a school-record 41 games, the Lady Rebels also achieved their first ranking in the Top 20 (their high was ninth), their first winning conference record (ninth) , their first winning conference record and their first victory over perennial powers Fresno State and UCLA State Fullerton.

UNLV also produced its first 20-game winner in senior All-America candidate Lori Parris and a high-powered offense led by UNLV's cleanup hitter, Kenda Reimche, who shined on the mound in her first season of All-America honors in her first season of the Col. ball. Her arrival gave the Lady Rebels a solid defense at second base and one of the nation's premier lefty fielders. Her .351 batting average ranked third in the conference and her 28 stolen bases make her a scoring threat every time she reaches base.

Rounding out the Lady Rebel infield is senior Kelly Kemp. A team leader both on and off the field, Kemp's arm and steady mitt at third base mean UNLV has a scoring threat every time she reaches base. Her .295 batting average and 84 hits, including 10 doubles, 13 triples and 25 runs batted in. A first-team All-West Region recipient, Baker is a four-year veteran of the Lady Rebel program and is the backbone of UNLV's sudden rise in national prominence. The team's leader from her first base position, Baker has emerged as a clutch hitter with her .289 batting average and 22 RBI, including a school-record eight game-winning hits.

Reimche earned second-team All-America honors in her first season of Col. ball. Her arrival gave the Lady Rebels a solid defense at second base and one of the nation's premier lefty fielders. Her .351 batting average ranked third in the conference and her 28 stolen bases make her a scoring threat every time she reaches base.

Not only did the Lady Rebels have a trio of freshmen join the Lady Rebels in their first season of All-West Region honors, including their first winning conference record and their first victory over perennial powers Fresno State and UCLA State Fullerton.

UNLV also produced its first 20-game winner in senior All-America candidate Lori Parris and a high-powered offense led by UNLV's cleanup hitter, Kenda Reimche, who shined on the mound in her first season of All-America honors in her first season of All-West Region honors and while hitting second in the UNLV lineup. Her .351 batting average, 25 stolen bases and .879 fielding percentage shows she is an all-around talent.

Moro will forever be remembered for her dazzling double play in the Far West Region championship game against California when she caught a fly ball and gunned out a Cal runner trying to tag from third with none out and the bases loaded in the bottom of the seventh and the Lady Rebels clinging to a 1-0 lead.

Harris is emerging as a power-hitting, as well as a fielding defensive player, and was accomplish in the California Junior-College Player of the Year. She brings additional power and speed to the Lady Rebel lineup and is the backbone of the team's defense.

Sophomores Kim Smith will share the pitching duties with Harrigan. In 18 appearances last season, Smith posted a record of 7-2 with a 1.08 ERA. A solid No. 2 hurler, Smith showed her talent last season toasting a no-hitter and limiting the opposition to a .168 batting average. Seeing considerable time in a utility role are seniors Felicia Benjamins and Erika Swanson.

Benjamins is a versatile player, capable of filling in at any position. Swanson is an able-bodied middle infielder, a sure-handed defensive player into the game won't mean a drop in quality for the Lady Rebels. The lads also added permanent position statistics, not including the 1991 season. Hollie Chadbuch, Jessica Davis, and Tracy Gallo are the building blocks for the future success of the UNLV program.

Only the Rebels have more winning games.

demic support system considered among the finest and most progressive in the nation. In light of all of his achievements on the basketball court, Tarkanian often is overlooked for what he does off the court in the Las Vegas community. A popular figure — sports or otherwise — Tarkanian spends many hours with community-related functions and charities. He has been honored by the Las Vegas Kidney Foundation as Man of the Year for his efforts on behalf of the organization, and, just last April, he received Man of the Year recognition for humanitarian service from Women at Work, a national fund-raising arm of Southwestern Christian College.

Tarkanian also runs statewide basketball camps for youngsters of all ages, as well as being an active member of various charitable organizations. In just the last six months, Tarkanian has been honored by the California State Legislature for his success as a collegiate coach and by the National Alliance of Black Universities for his work with black student-athletes. Additionally, he has been recognized by his university for his community efforts, being named assistant athletic director with designated duties as director of community relations in 1982. He was promoted during the summer of 1988 to his post as senior assistant athletic director.

A native of Euclid, Ohio, Tarkanian attended Pasadena City College before graduating from Fresno State in 1955.

He earned his master's degree with a focus on educational management from Redlands University. Tarkanian and his wife, Lois, have four children: Pamela, Jodie, Danny and George. The couple also have two grandchildren: Justine and Audrey.

TABLE OF THE TOWEL

The trademark towel dates back to Jerry Tarkanian's coaching days at Redlands (Calif.) High School. In 1960 when, during a league championship game against Rancho High School, he bought a simple way to quench his thirst. Rather than continue to walk back and forth to the drinking fountain at one end of the court, Tarkanian soaked a towel in water and chewed on it in order to get the water into his system and have Tarkanian Chewing gum for the rest of the game.

Years of Tarkanian's tenure as a head coach include:

- First UNLV Victory: 1966-67
- 100th UNLV Victory: 1976-77
- 200th UNLV Victory: 1986-87
- 300th UNLV Victory: 1991-92
- 400th UNLV Victory: 2002-03

UNLV's first victory was on Nov. 28, 1966, against St. Mary's.

"I just got tired of running to and from the drinking fountain in the middle of the game, so I grabbed a towel, soaked it in water and carried it back to the bench," Tarkanian said.

"We won the game and the championship, and since I'm not one to change when something works, I've stuck with the towel ever since.

"I guess I believe in lucky charms."

In actuality, there were two towels — only one, however, is wet. The one on top is soaked in more than tap water, and a dry one is placed on the floor to keep the top one from becoming soiled. The top towel is wetted and folded into six teenth by a designated student manager who has learned the folding technique from his predecessor. The towels are handed to Coach Tarkanian as he enters the court at pregame and he places them on the floor underneath his chair.

THE UNIVERSITY OF NEVADA, LAS VEGAS

The University of Nevada, Las Vegas, is a maturing institution that is becoming one of the nation's leading urban universities. It is also becoming a traditional residential campus.

UNLV's 335-acre campus is located in the metropolitan area south of the city of Las Vegas. Its academic colleges include Liberal Arts, Fine & Performing Arts, Business and Economics, Education, Howard R. Hughes College of Engineering, Health Sciences, the William F. Harrah College of Hotel Administration, Science and Mathematics, the Graduate College, the school of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Some 600 faculty members, 73 percent of whom hold doctoral degrees, teach more than 120 undergraduate and graduate programs at UNLV. In addition to its academic programs in English, sociology, physics and environmental biology, along with several new master's degree programs, reflect an increasing emphasis on graduate education.

UNLV's academic reputation grows stronger every year as Nevada's brightest young scholars take advantage of the Eandi Nevada Scholars Program and the Honors Program. Some 180 scholarships from Nevada high schools have enrolled at the university since the Idaho program began in 1985. Indeed, top students from the United States and many foreign students enroll at UNLV each year.

Although the university is just over three decades old, it has maintained a healthy rate of growth in enrollment, programs and physical plant.

Administrators are slated by the 18,216 which enrolled for Fall Semester 1990 classes, once again setting a new enrollment record.

The admission of three student residential halls in 1989 to the already existing four residential halls and a student services building provide on-campus housing for 1,200 students.

In the spring of 1989, university officials dedicated the $14.7 million, 101,000 square-foot Thomas T. Bean Engineering Complex to house the College of Engineering. Thanks to donor Ouida I. Howard, public safety and student health buildings were dedicated in 1989.

The university's social, scientific, and business programs attract millions of dollars in research grants annually to fund projects in desert biology, nuclear waste transportation, laser physics, public opinion surveys and many others.

Innovative educational and research programs exist in the College of Business and Economics. A $1 million corporate gift in 1988 set up a new business research institute to coordinate all faculty and student research in the college. The institute applies the college's research capabilities to problems faced by Nevada businesses.

The university also reaches an important segment of the adult community — the men and women at Nellis Air Force Base. Nellis personnel, their dependents, and employees of military contractors study at the base with UNLV instructors.

In addition to its regular academic programs, UNLV offers area residents more than 600 classes through its Division of Continuing Education, which enrolls some 16,000 students annually.

Much of the university's expansion is the result of support from the Nevada Legislature and the state's taxpayers.

Private donors have played an important role as well. Since the arrival of Robert C. Maxson in 1984, individuals and corporations have supported their public university with enthusiasm. In the last six years, UNLV has received more than $65 million in gifts and pledges for academics. These gifts support new facilities and programs, and most important, provide the scholarship incentives that bring Nevada's best and brightest student scholars to UNLV.

The university operates an on-campus Center for Business and Economic Research, Center for Environmental Research and Education. The university and community arts organizations to provide a broad selection of concerts and stage productions. The Barrick Lecture Series and several campus organizations bring noted speakers to the university, and local and visiting artists show their works in the Donna Beam Fine Art Galleries.

UNLV’S THOMAS AND MACK CENTER

It’s difficult to imagine a Runnin’ Rebels game with a sell-out attendance of little over 6,000 cheering fans, but only seven years ago that was the case for the UNLV team on their home court at the Las Vegas Convention Center.

Back then there were thousands of unfortunate Runnin’ Rebels fans who would have given their firstborn for a ticket to a home game. The cries for a new and bigger home court grew louder as the city and the university grew larger.

The cries were answered when two prominent Nevada Bankers, E. Business/Finance Assistant Director of Event Service Bob Anderson

Ongoing are plans for the Convention Center's expansion into a two-dimensional concept at the Thomas and Mack Center. Coach Jerry Tarkanian was happy and satisfied.

TMC FACTS & STATS

The Center is primarily "Tark's Shark Tank," with the UNLV Runnin' Rebels playing the number-one attraction for Las Vegas fans, but multi-purpose has become the buzz word used by the Center's management team.

Concerts have become as popular as athletic events. Some local favorites who have performed at the Center include Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin and Diana Ross (for the gala grand opening held on Dec. 16, 1983); and touring shows such as Pavarotti, the Boston Pops, Genesis, Yes, Van Halen, Elton John, Billy Joel, U2, Lionel Richie, Kenny G., Rod Stewart, Hank Williams Jr., Kenny Rogers, Dolly Parton and Waylon Jennings have also played the Center.

The National Finals Rodeo (formerly held in Oklahoma City) has found a new home at the Center. Known as the "Super Bowl of Rodeo," this annual event has spurred a great boost to the once-sagging December Las Vegas economy.

Family-style entertainment has also grown at the Center. Every year the ever-popular Disney On Ice Show brings in close to 65,000 fans. Other family shows include the Harlem Globetrotters, Masters of the Universe and the Muppet Babies.

The Center also hosts industrial shows. These types of events depend on large accommodations, experienced managers and unique floor plans in order to be successful.

Offering a well-rounded program of events has made the Thomas and Mack Center one of the premier facilities in the west.

THE HOME TEAM - THE PLACE TO BE IN '90-'91

The UNLV Rebels enjoyed unprecedented success during the 1989-90 season, and began a new decade brimming with promise for the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Nine of the fourteen Rebel teams competed in 1989-90 NCAA post-season competition, with over a dozen student-athletes achieving all-America status.

The Runnin’ Rebel men’s basketball team captured the school’s first-ever national championship after cruising to their eighth consecutive Big West Conference Title. League championship trophies were also claimed by the women’s basketball squad, which posted the best conference; and women’s best record ever at 28-3 and a #2 national ranking.

The accomplishments of former and current Rebel student-athletes are many, and great potential exists for continued growth and future success in the women’s programs. Your support of the UNLV Women’s Sports Foundation will help make the qualitative difference to UNLV’s student-athletes. There are many ways to be involved. If you would like further information please contact Tina Kusters at 739-3420 or Sheila Strike-Bolla at 739-3614.

HOW YOU CAN BE A MEMBER OF OUR TEAM

DIFFERENT WAYS TO CONTRIBUTE

CASH GIFTS are the most common method of giving and provide immediate support to Rebel Athletics. Contributions may be made in any amount and payments can be made in installments.

GIFT OF SECURITIES OR REAL ESTATE are a most welcome contribution and will be equal to the market value at the time of receipt.

ENDOWMENT is an excellent way to ensure continued aid for the future. Our long-term goal is to endow every athletic scholarship. The donor of an endowed scholarship will have his/her name affixed to his/her scholarship given to the UNLV athletic. This is a new area of emphasis and rapid growth is anticipated.

GIFTS- IN- KIND (TRADE OUT) can greatly assist athletic department's expenditures. For some contributions it may be more beneficial to provide goods or services in lieu of cash gifts. Gifts have included automobiles, equipment, printing and other commodities.

ENDOWMENT GIFTS

Friends of UNLV are now provided the opportunity to make longer-term gifts to Rebel athletics through the UNLV Athletic Endowment Fund. Some of the many forms of long-term giving are: charitable gift annuities, charitable lead trusts, charitable remainder trusts, foundations, pooled income funds, and gifts of cash, securities, income interest, life insurance, and real estate.

Endowment gifts will provide scholarships for student athletes in perpetuity, while providing considerable tax advantages to donors. If you would like more information regarding endowed giving, please contact Sheila Strike-Bolla, Assistant Director of Athletic Development at 739-3614.

THE UNLV WOMEN’S SPORTS FOUNDATION

The UNLV Women’s Sports Foundation has recently been created to provide support for the women’s athletic programs at UNLV. It is an organization designed exclusively for charitable and educational purposes, and incorporates the Women’s Boost-Here, formerly the fund raising entity for UNLV women’s athletics. This foundation will support and promote the women’s programs and enhance the quality of the educational opportunity afforded female student-athletes as they pursue athletic and academic excellence.

The UNLV Department of Intercollegiate Athletics sponsors seven athletic activities for women, including basketball, cross country, softball, swimming and diving, tennis, indoor and outdoor track. The women compete in the Big West Conference, one of the premier women’s athletic conferences in the country. It is the nation’s best in softball and volleyball, and among the top three in women’s basketball.

The accomplishments of former and current Rebel student-athletes are many, and great potential exists for continued growth and future success in the women’s programs. Your support of the UNLV Women’s Sports Foundation will help make the qualitative difference to UNLV’s student-athletes. There are many ways to be involved. The 1989-90 academic year will forever be remembered at UNLV as the year Jerry Tarkanian and his Runnin' Rebels ran over Duke, 103-79, in the NCAA Championship to capture the school's first national title. Consensus first team All-American and Big West Players of the Year Larry Johnson left the Rebels as they compiled a 35-5 record on their way to their "Destiny in Denver." Along the way to their title, the Rebels captured their eighth consecutive conference crown and cemented their dominance at the Thomas and Mack Center, polling a 17-0 mark at home. "Hustlin' Rebels" baseball posted its 15th consecutive 30-win season as a young UNLV team compiled a 30-26 record and tied for fifth in the Big West, a season marked by inconsistent play and one of the toughest schedules. The Rebels were led by All-American lefty Donovan Osborne posted victories over Illinois, Michigan, Oklahoma, Creighton, Fresno State and BYU. A victory at Pacific saw Brian Boehringer throw only the second no-hitter in school history. Capping off the season was Osborne's signing with the St. Louis Cardinals as the 13th overall selection in the Major League Draft. Lady Rebel basketball equaled the success of the Runnin' Rebels during the regular season as UNLV was the only school to have both the men's and women's programs ranked in the Top Five at the same time. The Lady Rebels posted their winningest season ever, 29-3, in capturing their first Big West title in four seasons. UNLV returned to the NCAA Tournament for the second consecutive season falling to Mississippi in the second round. Center Pauline Jordan, the first Lady Rebel to earn first team All-America accolades, closed out her career as the top rebounder in school history with 1,054 boards. The UNLV cross country team finished second in the NCAA regionals. The outdoor squad won its fifth Big West title and the NCAA West Regional. The Rebels finished 18th at the NCAAs and were led by All-America honorable mention Hub Stegman, who captured medalist honors at the NCAA West Regional. The Rebel soccer squad posted its eighth consecutive winning season and earned head coach Barry Barber his 100th victory at UNLV in an up-and-down season as the Rebels were led by freshman Daniel Barber led the Rebels to an 11-6-1 record and a fourth place finish in the Big West. Barber was named to the freshman All-America team as well as the national under-23 squad. Senior Sal Carbome became the all-time assist leader at UNLV with 26 assists. The most surprising program of the year for UNLV was Lady Rebel softball. Many titles were achieved in 1990 as the Lady Rebels made their first post-season appearance advancing to the College World Series. UNLV finished its winningest season ever with a 42-27 record and a fifth place finish at the CWS. The Lady Rebels finished fourth in the formidable Big West Conference with first ever victories over three-time national runners Fresno State and traditional power Cal State Fullerton. UC Transfer Chris Parks helped the Lady Rebels finish 11th in the nation in batting average hitting .310. Sophomore hurler Lori Harligan compiled a 25-7 mark, becoming the school's 200 game winner. The UNLV swim teams continued to excel as Bart Pippenger, in the 200 butterfly, became the first time All American at UNLV. Heather Troutt became the sixth consecutive Lady Rebel to capture Big West Swimmer of the Year honors. The Lady Rebels finished second in the Big West while the Rebels finished third. UNLV men's tennis went through a rebuilding year as a young Rebel squad took to the courts. Underclassmen filled four of the six singles slots led by freshman Patrice Bois who posted a 23-15 record playing mostly number three singles. Lady Rebel tennis enjoyed its second 20-win season and its first appearance in NCAA postseason play. Four seniors headled the UNLV squad, which went 23-15 in dual match play and finished fourth in the Big West. All four seniors won 20 + matches including Allison Watanabe, who became the first Lady Rebel to participate in the NCAA Tournament. Watanabe, the Big West Player of the Year, finished the season ranked 30th nationally and became the all-time winningest UNLV tennis player with 120 singles victories. The Lady Rebel track and field squad was represented in both the indoor and outdoor NCAA championships. The indoor team finished tied for 5th at the CWS. The indoor squad won the Big West title and second in a row. This Lady Rebels swept the three top spots in both the long jump and the 400 meter hurdles at the conference championships held at UNLV Myron Partridge Stadium. Junior Tawana Williams, in the heptathlon, and Maddette Smith, in the long jump and the 400 meter hurdles at the conference championships held at UNLV Myron Partridge Stadium. Junior Tawana Williams, in the heptathlon, and Maddette Smith, in the long jump, captured All-America honors as UNLV finished tied for 34th at the NCAA Championships.

1991 UNLV BASEBALL

1991 Season Outlook

The 1991 UNLV baseball team will once again play a tough schedule and compete in the Big West Conference, one of the premier leagues in college baseball. UNLV is coming off a disappointing 30-36 record last season and a fifth place finish in the Big West (10-11).

The Rebels qualified for the NCAA playoffs in 1988 and 1989 with 40-22 and 40-20 records, respectively. UNLV’s 1991 schedule will feature 11 of the 30 teams ranked in last season’s Collegiate Baseball poll and three teams which competed in last season’s College World Series.

The 60-game schedule includes four teams that finished in the top 10 in 1990 (second-ranked Oklahoma State (58-17), runner-up Georgia, fourth-ranked Arizona (54-19) and seventh-ranked Cal State-Fullerton (49-23). LSU and Cal State-Fullerton joined Oklahoma State in last year’s College World Series.

"This is a highly competitive schedule," said UNLV head coach Fred Dallimore, who will enter his 18th season with a record of 49-22. "We have a lot of numbers on the staff to work with." UNLV will play a tough pre-season schedule and compete in the Big West Conference, one of the top 20 conferences in the country. The Rebels have good athletes in the outfield. We will lead the team in the infield. Freshman M.J. DeSantis-UNLV, runner-up to Bill DeSantis-UNLV. 44-21, will be (junior) Larry Scruggs, Reiber and Mariani our left-handed stopper. (Junior) Ricky Scruggs, Reiber and Mariani all have the ability to hit the ball. We are looking for one guy to put up the momentum but our starting pitching and defense is the difference to win the conference. The conference is full of quality players. We can’t beat ourselves in order to make a run for the conference title."

The schedule will feature 42 home games and 16 road games. The 21-game Big West season will begin with a three-game series at Long Beach State, March 26-27. No. 29 Cal State Fullerton will be used as.

OUTFIELDERS -- "We have good athletes in the outfield. We plan on leading off (junior) Tony Miret in center field. (Senior) Tim Johnson led our team in hitting last season and will play right field. (Senior) Bucky Dillon (and sophomore) Dan Madsen are the other top outfielders."

CATCHERS -- "Our catching core is solid. (Sophomore) Lee Huntler is the best catcher we have. He has good arm strength and a good feel for the game. He is a solid IOS and (junior) Bill Johnson will throw the plate. (Senior) Sheri Carter and (senior) Bill DeSantis will be our backup catchers, with (junior) Correa a probable starter at third base."

"We have three elements of our game that are good, pitching, catching, and the outfield. We possess better power than we did last year. Johnson, (senior designated hitter/first baseman) Ricky Scruggs, Reiber and Mariani all have the ability to hit the ball. We are looking for one guy to put up the momentum but our starting pitching and defense is the difference to win the conference. The conference is full of quality players. REBELS ON THE RADIO

More people heard of the accomplishments of UNLV's athletic program last season than ever before. Again in 1990, KDWN-AM, operating with 50,000 kilohertz, will be the radio home of UNLV basketball. KDWN has a full-channel directional signal that covers the western United States as well as parts of Canada, Mexico and Hawaii. Laughlin Roughrider Broadcasting, Inc., is the radio rights-holder for UNLV men's basketball, as it has been for the last four seasons.

Gailing the play-by-play action for the Runnin' Rebels is veteran announcer Ross Porter, who also is one of the voices of the Los Angeles Dodgers. Porter, who has been a play-by-play announcer since he was 14, is the only person ever to broadcast the games of a World Series champion (Dodgers, 1981 and 1988) as well as a NCAA basketball champion (UNLV, 1990). In baseball, Porter holds the distinction of having broadcast a 22-inning baseball game last season, a major league record for the longest consecutive play-by-play by one announcer. Porter is a former Emmy award-winner as a sportscaster for KNBC-TV in Los Angeles. He is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma.

Danny Kovanec, a former UNLV assistant coach and currently the head coach of the Erie Wave of the World Basketball League, is in his fifth season as a Rebel color analyst.

Rebel broadcasts are a five-hour package with the game preceded by "Rebel Basketball Talk," a 1 1/2-hour show hosted by Lee Pete and Mark Warkentien. The show will be carried live from the Thomas & Mack Center prior to home games.

The Rebel pregame show features Porter one-half hour prior to tipoff. A one-half hour postgame show follows each contest.

Alumni Dollars Create Public Scholarships
Scholarship Committee Looks to the Future

With the completion of the Richard Tam Alumni Center, the Alumni Association faces the beginning of a new era, and Pam Hicks, chairperson of the association’s scholarship committee, hopes to make that era one of substantial growth in scholarships.

Although funds have been added steadily to the Alumni Association scholarship program over the past few years, the construction of the new building required much of the association’s attention and resources, according to Hicks.

Now that the association’s board of directors can concentrate on other programs, and alumni will have a break in donation requests, Hicks hopes to create new scholarship awards and enhance those already established.

“The scholarship committee’s goal is to award as many scholarships as possible,” Hicks says. “The board of directors is very pro-scholarship, and with the building complete, we will be able to expand the scholarship program.”

Funds for the scholarship program are raised through alumni membership dues and the sale of promotional items. In addition, the board of directors recently approved budget increases for the scholarship fund that are important to the growth of the program, Hicks says.

The board agreed to make two of the 12 freshman scholarships currently being funded by the Alumni Association into renewable awards. Given to incoming freshmen, the $1,000 annual scholarships have been an important tool in attracting some of the best Clark County high school students to UNLV, Hicks says.

“The renewable scholarships were the most important addition to our program. We have been successful in bringing in the best local students with the freshman scholarship, but we need to concentrate on keeping the students here with more renewable awards,” Hicks says. She adds that the committee wants to expand the renewable awards so that recipients of the freshman scholarships who maintain a high grade point average can renew the $1,000 award each year they attend UNLV.

In its efforts to retain outstanding students, the board also approved increasing the number of department scholarships from five to 10, Hicks says. Because there are 32 departments and only 10 of the $500 annual department scholarships, the association needs the awards each year they exist and every department has an opportunity to recognize an upper division student who earns a 3.0 grade point average and who exhibits leadership abilities.

Last spring, the Board of Regents approved an out-of-state tuition waiver for children of UNLV alumni. Children of deceased-paying members of the UNLV Alumni Association pay only $200 per semester in non-resident fees. The normal charge is $1,650 each semester.

The Alumni Association also recently created a one-year renewable scholarship for children of deceased-paying alumni. Students who earned at least a 2.0 on their ACT exam or a 3.2 gpa can apply for the scholarship. The student receives $1000 each year as long as he or she maintains a good gpa.

The Alumni Association also funds other important scholarships, including two $500 graduate scholarships and a $250 Most Outstanding Thesis Award, according to Hicks.

The scholarship committee hopes to establish more endowed awards such as the Jesse Metcalf Art Scholarship and the James Bilbray Scholarship. Hicks says that UNLV’s alumni gave so generously to the new alumni center, she hopes they will consider establishing endowed scholarships in the future.

In addition to its own scholarships, the Alumni Association helps support UNLV’s Honors Program, which caters to the university’s brightest students.

“Dr. Len Zane, the director of the Honors Program, would like us to expand our support of the program, which gives the association a lot of positive publicity,” Hicks says, adding that the scholarship committee hopes to add to the $6,000 it contributes each year.

Those interested in applying for an Alumni Association scholarship can go to their high school counselor in charge of scholarship applications or UNLV’s financial aid office (humanities Building, third floor) and fill out one general scholarship form. The UNLV application lists on the back all of the association scholarships available and the requirements for each.

The UNLV Alumni Association is kicking off the first of a series of dinner and theater performances for members of the UNLV Alumni Association. The spring’s first dinner will be held the evening of April 4th in the Marietta Tiberi Grand Hall of the Richard Tam Alumni Center. The evening will begin at 6:15 with no-host cocktails and at 8:45 dinner will be served.

The cost will be $38.00 per couple (for dinner and theater tickets). Following dinner at 7:45 the Alumni group will walk to the Judy Bailey Theater to see the play “Candida” (Voltaire), Leonard Bernstein’s and Hugh Wheeler’s wildly inventive comic opera.

Reservations can be made through the Alumni Office at 739-3621. The first fifty couples to pay will be the first alumni to enjoy this new program which will continue in the Fall with a series of performances which can be purchased on a seasonal basis.

The next natural step in the development of the women’s athletic program at UNLV is the creation of a support group to further enhance the quality of the educational opportunity afforded the female student-athletes. Many young women use athletics as a vehicle to further their education. The UNLV Women’s Sports Foundation has recently been created to broaden the base of support in the community for the women’s programs by promoting the academic and athletic accomplishments of the women who comprise the program.

The Women’s Sports Foundation will be hosting selected events, any proceeds from which will be provided for enhancement of the women’s athletic programs. An annual social to welcome female student-athletes, both new and returning, to the University and the community will be hosted by the Women’s Sports Foundation. Also, the Foundation will host an annual UNLV Women’s Athletics banquet in pursuit of recognizing the outstanding accomplishments of the female student-athletes of UNLV. Numerous other foundation events are planned throughout the year.

The accomplishments of former and current female student-athletes are many, and great potential exists for continued growth and future success in the women’s programs. Your support of the UNLV Women’s Sports Foundation will help make the qualitative difference to UNLV’s female student-athletes. Many young women use athletic scholarships to attend UNLV.

Numerous other foundation events are planned throughout the year.

The Women’s Sports Foundation would like to acknowledge this year’s members:

THE BIG WEST CONFERENCE

The Big West Conference enters its third year of existence since changing its name from the Pacific Coast Athletic Association on July 1, 1988. The name is seen as a simpler, more accurate description of the league’s member institutions — Cal State Fullerton, Fresno State, Long Beach State, New Mexico State, San Jose State, UC Irvine, UC Santa Barbara, Hawaii, UNLV, Pacific and Utah State.

When the league was formed in 1969, it consisted of seven charter members, all of which were located in the state of California. As the league enters its 35th season, the conference has expanded to include universities from states which are not on or near the Pacific coast — Utah, New Mexico and Nevada.

Only eight members compete in football, but the conference features 10 teams in all of its remaining sports and includes 11 schools at the present time. UC Irvine does not sponsor collegiate football while UC Santa Barbara competes at the Division III level. The University of Hawaii competes in women’s sports only, and Cal Poly San Luis Obispo competes in women’s volleyball. The 1990-91 season will see the women’s programs from Utah State and New Mexico State competing in conference play.

Last season, Big West teams won three national championships. The UNLV Runnin’ Rebel basketball team captured its first national crown with a 103-73 victory over Duke. Long Beach State’s women’s volleyball team and UC Irvine’s men’s water polo squad also won national crowns. Numerous other teams also competed in national postseason action.

The season promises to be just as successful as UNLV should be one of the top teams in the country and Long Beach State, Pacific and Hawaii are always among the top teams in women’s volleyball.

The Big West Conference office is headed by Commissioner James Haney. In his third year, Haney is only the third commissioner in conference history. He succeeded Lewis Cryer, who guided the conference through 10 years of growth and expansion.
MARJORIE BARRICK MUSEUM SCHEDULED FOR RENOVATION

By Tom Flagg

A $3.7 million remodeling and addition project will soon turn the Marjorie Barrick Museum of Natural History, one of UNLV's oldest buildings, into a modern facility for research, meetings, and education.

The museum building was originally the university gymnasium, built in 1960, when the campus was only three years old. By the late 1960s it had been converted to the Museum of Natural History. In 1981 the Environmental Research Center opened for business in the museum building, converting what had once been locker rooms into laboratories. In 1989 the building was named in honor of UNLV donor Marjorie Barrick.

Now, thanks in large part to a $3 million grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the building will get a total face lift. The lobby will be remodeled and a new gift shop added, two new entrances will be built, a four-story addition will be constructed to house the ERC's research departments, and a second floor will be built inside the lobby area. Virtually everything other than the main exhibit area will be remodeled.

"On the northeast corner we will have a new 175-seat theater for international, national, and regional conferences, institutes, and meetings," according to Dr. Donald Baepler, museum director. "We have turned down many conferences and institutes in the past, because you can't get a room anywhere on campus, so I'm sure our conference center will be booked up."

Tate & Snyder, the architectural firm that designed the project, has attempted to tie the museum into its surroundings. Baepler said. The conference center, which faces the original library building, will be circular, to reflect the design of the older building.

The architects decided to create the illusion that the Drought Tolerant Demonstration Garden, located in front of the museum, actually enters the lobby. Much of the first floor frontage will be glass, and the paving stones that form the garden paths will be reflected in the lobby floor covering.

The four-story addition on the north side of the building will contain some 60 new offices. The first story will house the ERC's archaeology department labs and offices. The second floor will contain the research center's microbiology program, plus four meeting rooms, three of which will be associated with the conference center.

The third floor will be the chemistry and optics area, and the fourth floor will contain a specialized facility for statistics modeling and indoor air studies labs.

"This gives our four science groups new laboratories and offices," Baepler said. Noting that the project will go to bid and construction will begin in June, he said the job will be complete in early 1992.

The need for this project is obvious, Baepler said.

"We started the Environmental Research Center in a physical education building. We moved into the museum in 1981, and by 1982 we were putting people up in temporary space. Now we are renting commercial space, we have people in Wright and Beam halls, and some of our people are in make-shift offices in the museum building."

The problem is not only overcrowding, but space that is inappropriate to the function for which it is being used, Baepler said.

"Our microbiology group is operating in a laboratory that was designed to handle hazardous chemistry materials," he said. "It's O.K. for them, but it is a very limiting, awkward laboratory space. And our indoor-air people are doing some very significant work right now, but they do not have the appropriate kind of laboratories to work in."

In addition to the $3 million grant from EPA, the university has provided $150,000 for furnishings, and the museum will raise approximately $600,000 for the project.

The museum staff is excited about the project, Baepler said, adding that when the construction and remodeling are complete, the center's research programs will be able to expand, and the ERC's staff of 60 will be back under one roof, "which is always desirable."
