THE CITY

Las Vegas enjoys a world wide reputation as an entertainment and tourist capital. Each year, an average of nine million visitors relax in its clear, dry climate and take advantage of all the attractions of the world famous "Strip." But the casual tourist gets only a narrow, often distorted view of perhaps the most rapidly-changing city in the country.

The community traces its history back to 1855 when a band of 30 missionaries journeyed to the Ely, Nevada, as Las Vegas, or "The Meadows," to build a settlement for the Mormon Church. Even before the first settlers, the oasis in the desert had become a favorite stopping place for travelers on the Old Spanish Trail which ran between Santa Fe and Southern California. Actual development as a town came in two days and the town was on its way to modern development.

By 1955—a half century after the desert train stop had grown to a community of more than 100,000 people. The year marked the founding of the University of Nevada, Las Vegas and the beginning of a new era in the city's history because, in the brief few years since then, Las Vegas has blossomed into a metropolis of more than 300,000 residents, unparalleledly broadened its civic outlook and created a cosmopolitan atmosphere quite unlike the rough-and-tumble tradition of the Old West which characterized it for so long.

Surrounding Las Vegas is one of the most picturesque areas of the Southwest, offering residents unlimited outdoor recreation the year around. Like to snow ski? There is a 12,000-foot mountain with complete ski facilities less than an hour's drive from the campus. Lake Mead and the Colorado River to the south offer fishing and all kinds of water sports — skiing, swimming, sailing, boat racing and skin diving. And in almost any direction out of town, the outdoor person can find a panorama of rugged red-rock landscapes, bike trails and forgotten ghost towns which await a weekend's exploration and a lifetime of memories.

Las Vegas is known world-wide as an entertainment capital. But there is another side of the city which is gaining national recognition each year.

The University of Nevada, Las Vegas is one of the country’s fastest-growing institutions of higher learning. In less than ten years, UNLV has tripled its campus in size, allowing room for the university’s 65 different degree programs available to students, including almost two dozen at the master’s and doctoral levels.

Founded in 1957, UNLV has grown from a single one-story building in the desert to a green 350-acre campus with a total head-count enrollment of more than 9,500.

To accommodate the increasing enrollment, UNLV has undertaken a massive construction program which has brought more than $25 million worth of new buildings to the 350-acre campus in just the past seven years.

These include one of the most modern teacher education facilities in the country, a major classroom and office building, a 690-seat complex complete with a 50-meter indoor swimming pool, new laboratories and classrooms in the life science, and a spacious 2,000-seat concert hall which serves as a cultural home for the entire community.

The next major project is a $7 million addition to the James Dickinson Library. Ground is expected to be broken in mid-1979 with completion expected about two years later. With nearly a third of a million volumes, the current three story library has just about reached its capacity.

A generous gift from local attorney and businessman Artemus W. Ham, Jr. has provided seed money for a new fine arts building. It is the largest single private contribution the university has ever received for a building project.

The $10.9 million facility is included in the university’s 1979-83 capital improvement request to the legislature. The center will house teaching, research and studio facilities for the departments of theatre arts, music and art.

Approved by the last state legislature is a 18,000-seat continuing education and activities center which will serve as the new home for basketball starting in 1981.

There are more than 350 faculty on the staff now. They come from distinguished centers of learning—Berkeley, Harvard Chicago, Princeton — and through their research and publications, they are earning a fine academic reputation for UNLV in circles of higher education.

There are currently 65 different degree programs available to students, including almost two dozen at the master’s and doctoral levels.

The College of Hotel Administration, for example, ranks among the finest programs of its type in the United States, and its graduates hold top management positions in hotels, restaurants and hospitals world over.

The university’s reputation in the sciences is growing, too, as it carries out research projects in such fields as desert ecology, environmental biology and geology, taking full advantage of its unique Southwestern desert setting.

Two new research centers at UNLV, the Desert Biology Research Center and the Visibility Research Center, have received national attention. UNLV is becoming an international leader in desert and environmental stress research through the desert biology center. The visibility center is the nation’s first to monitor air quality and study technical and socio-economic problems of air pollution in western states.

The UNLV theatre arts department continues to earn regional and national awards for its outstanding dramatic productions, and music students are now earning credits playing behind the superstars of show business on the Las Vegas Strip.

UNLV’s student Jazz Ensemble recently was named the second best college jazz group in the world in competition in Switzerland. The group just returned from a critically acclaimed tour of the Orient.

The university also has a progressive teacher education program, a growing nursing department and solid preparation of students in the social science, humanities, business and economics.

The university also reaches out into the community through its aggressive continuing education program that last year enrolled 15,000 local residents from housewives to business owners, graduates to four-year-olds.

The future is bright for UNLV as it completes its 21st year of service to Nevada through its program of teaching, research and public service.
Athletic Director

For the past 11 years, Bill Ireland has been a fixture in the UNLV athletic department. From 1968 through 1972, he was the Rebel head football coach and from 1971-1975 he was the director of intercollegiate athletics for UNLV. If anyone ever ran a contest to elect "Mr. UNLV Athletics," Bill Ireland would be the first name to appear on the ballot.

At the conclusion of his distinguished past with the program and his bright future, he has decided to step down from his position as chief administrator for the UNLV athletic program and enter private business here in Las Vegas. The UNLV athletic program will sorely miss him in the future, but no one will miss him more than the program and the department will ever miss him at this past. He has guaranteed he will stay with the program until January 1, but has indicated his desire to leave as soon as possible after that as the program has hired a replacement for him.

Ireland began his athletic career under head football coach Ireland, reeled off four consecutive winning seasons with a near-perfect 8-1 mark in the first season of competition in 1968. During this time he accelerated the program from a near perennial doormat to a program that had only one losing season in the last six years. He will remain an assistant coach in the spring of 1980.

Ireland has a record which makes the women's athletic program one of the nation's best and he has become an all-around professional in his capacity at UNLV.

Most coaches dream about winning 85 percent of their games, being invited to post season tournaments, and directing one of the nation’s leading offenses.

Dan Ayala does not have to dream. In four seasons at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, the veteran mentor has established himself as one of the country’s premier women’s college basketball coaches by compiling an incredible 88-15 mark (.854 winning percentage) with squads which made fifteen 15-game and 5-game winning streaks. The only losses of their 23-2 season occurred during mid-season at Kansas State and against UCLA at the AIAW District B Tournament.

Last season, overcoming one of the biggest challenges of his career, Ayala guided a relatively short (6-7 average height) and inexperienced (nine freshmen and three juniors) squad to a 24-4 mark and the number one seed in the Region B Basketball Championships.

During his UNLV tenure, Ayala’s tutelage has produced three National Scouting Association All-Americans — Teresa Willis (First Team, 1978-79), Belinda Candler (First Team, 1977-78) and Janie Fincher (Honorable Mention, 1977-78). And, when the Women’s Professional Basketball League opens its second season this year, no less than five former Lady Rebels — Belinda Candler (All-Pro and MVP with the Houston Angels last year), Janie Fincher (All-Pro with the Chicago Hustle), Debra Waddy-Rossow (All-Pro with the Chicago Hustle), Liz Galloway (Chicago Hustle) and Janice Fuller (Milwaukee Does) — will be seeing action.

A friendly international relationship between Ayala and several Mexican college basketball coaches has resulted in exceptional opportunities for the Lady Rebels. A typical UNLV schedule includes a week of competition in the University of Mexico International Classic in Mexico City, as well as a number of Mexican colleges visiting Las Vegas.

A typical UNLV schedule includes a week of competition in the University of Mexico International Classic in Mexico City, as well as a number of Mexican colleges visiting Las Vegas.

The UNLV head man also has developed one of the most prestigious women’s college basketball programs in the country — the Tournament of Champions. Featured along with the Lady Rebels in this year’s tourney are Louisiana Tech, last season’s national runner-up team, the University of Tennessee, which was ranked number one in the country the first half of the 1978-79 season, and, the team which upset UNLV in the Region B Play-offs, Long Beach State. Ayala came to UNLV after twelve years of coaching on the scholastic, junior college and collegiate levels — Beaumont (CA) High School (four years, 48-22), Mt. San Jacinto Junior College (three years, 57-18), Pasadena City College (three years, 72-18), and Cal Poly, Pomona (two years, 14-12). He joined the Rebel staff in 1973 as an assistant coach and scheduled coordinator to Jerry Tarkanian, the head coach of the Rebel basketball team. He succeeded Barbara Quinn as the women’s head coach in 1975.

Dan and his wife, Linda, have five sons and one daughter — twins Brian and Steven (14), Randy (12), Daniel (10), David (4), and Christie Lynn (3).
Graduate assistant coach, Donna Wick is in associated with competitive of the Lady track squad. She was three times in the monograms in more than 1955, she was graduated from High School.

After serving for two seasons as a graduate assistant coach, Donna Wick is in her first year as a full-time assistant coach for the Lady Rebel basketball team. "Donna is a valuable asset to our program," noted head coach, Dan Ayala. "She was extremely instrumental in the success of the Lady Rebels over the past two years.

The 24-year old native of Iowa has been associated with competitive basketball for more than eleven years. Born in Morning Sun (IA) on January 3, 1955, she was graduated from Winfield High School, where she earned four monograms in basketball. As a senior and team captain, she led the team in scoring while receiving All-State and Most Valuable Player honors. She later lettered four times as a shortstop on the softball team and three times in the 220 and 440 events on the track squad.

For two seasons, she performed on the hardcourt at Temple Junior College before transferring to the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. Wrapping up her career, she received a number of her honors. As a 24-year old Powers came to UNLV from Colorado State University, where she has served as an assistant athletic trainer since August 1977. She also instructed courses in first aid at CSU.

For three years, she was a student athlete/trainer at Northern Arizona University. She fulfilled her student teaching requirements as an athletic trainer at Coconino High School in Arizona.

Powers earned a B.S. degree in physical education with a minor in athletic training from Northern Arizona University and a M.Ed. degree in physical education from Colorado State. She received her athletic training certification from NATA (National Athletic Trainers' Association) in May of 1978. Jeannie was honored as the most outstanding senior student in women's physical education at Northern Arizona. She is a member of both NATA and AAPHER (American Association for Physical Education, Health and Recreation).

Additional during 1977-80, she will be the publicity director for the AAW National University Swimming and Diving Championships, which will be held by UNLV in mid-March. She performed in the same capacity last year when the NCAA National Independent Swimming and Diving Championships were held at UNLV.

Lehman came to the Las Vegas campus from Erie, Pennsylvania, where she served as the sports information director at Gannon College, a Division II basketball powerhouse, and as the public relations director at both the three Erie area Y.M.C.A.'s. As a graduate student, she was a member of the sports information office at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti and at Ohio University in Athens.

On the undergraduate level, Linda was a sports information student assistant and the sports editor of both the campus newspaper and yearbook at the University of Pittsburgh, where she was a master's degree in sports administration from Ohio University. She is a member of CoSIDA (College Sports Information Directors of America), which has recognized her publications among the best in the nation.

A free lance writer and avid amateur photographer, Linda will mark her twenty-eighth birthday on the 23rd. of November.
In Las Vegas, the 5-3 Hamilton also was second on the team in assists (41) and assists (82), and tied for third best in rebounding (6.5 rpg).

But head coach, Dan Ayala, is not suffering from sleepless nights or bringing his fingernails down to the thumbnails. In fact, the fifty-three year old man has never been more optimistic about a Lady Rebel squad.

“Our motto this year is 'The team wins a Dream,' and that dream is to win a national title,” explains Ayala. “For the first time since I have been at UNLV, the Lady Rebels have the talent, character, desire and all of the other intangible ingredients necessary to be a championship team.” Previously, we have had good teams at UNLV, but not near the caliber of this year’s team. The 1979-80 Lady Rebels can win the national championship.

Ayala has reason to be confident. After all, all of the standouts from the past season have returned, and the highly successful mentor did not do a shabby job on the recruiting trail. Teresa Endicott Willis, a 5'9 First Team National Scouting Association All-America forward, will be back for her second and final UNLV season. The native of Jennings, Oklahoma, appears fully recovered from the ligament repair surgery on her left ankle which she underwent following the 1979-70 campaign.

The leading scorer (24.8 ppg) and rebounder (11.9 rpg) on the squad, Willis also was selected as a member of the Kodak All Region 8 team, the Western AIAW Sub-Regional All Tournament team, and as the Most Valuable Player of the NIKE Tournament of Champions and the Las Vegas Round Robin Tournament.

In just one season at UNLV, the former two-time junior college All-American claimed four Lady Rebel records; most points scored by an individual in a game (44 vs. Utah State, 12/16/79), most free throws attempted by an individual in a game (24 vs. Cal Poly, Pomona, 1/13/79), most free throws made by an individual in a season (194), and, most free throws attempted by an individual in a season (304).

Sandra Hamilton (16.2 ppg) the Lady Rebels’ second leading scorer also will be returning after a brilliant freshman season.

What They Are Saying About Teresa Willis

CINDY PERKINS, head basketball coach, Utah State University "Teresa Willis turned in one of the most outstanding individual performances I have ever seen as a player or a coach. She scored 44 points, led the team in rebounding and played superb defense. Her knowledge of the game and her anticipation are assets which make her a superb and complete basketball player. She is extremely solid fundamentally on both offense and defense. She is the best all-around ball player I have seen in years. Whatever it takes to win, she can do."

RICHIE SPEARS, head basketball coach, San Diego State University "I think Teresa Willis can play with anyone, anywhere, in the country."

CATHY HUSH, former head coach, Immaculata College "I have always been impressed with the way UNLV moves the ball up and down the court. Considering her size, Teresa Willis does an excellent job of getting the ball inside and getting the shot off."

NANCY DUNKLE, head basketball coach, Cal State-Fullerton "Teresa Willis is deceivingly quick. We put our quickest girl on her and Willis still got around her."
Three-year Lady Rebel veteran...one of two senior members of the 1979-80 squad...started all of the 28 1978-79 games while serving as co-captain with Teresa Willis...averaged 5.3 points and 4.3 rebounds a game...was fourth on the team in steals (23) and assists (58)...led the Lady Rebels in rebounding against the University of Utah (10) and the University of Kansas (8)...holds the UNLV record for most games played by an individual during a career (71)...during her Lady Rebel tenure, she has averaged 4.6 points and 3.0 rebounds a game while handing out 183 assists...owned game norms of 4.6 points and 3.5 assists while seeing action as a starting point guard in 25 games as a sophomore...led the squad with 87 assists...as a freshman, she scored at a 3.7 points a game clip while appearing in 18 games...earned three basketball monograms at Hoover High School in Fresno, California...performed on three league and three Valley championship teams...also appeared in the City-County All-Star game following her senior year of high school.

Personal: A 1976 graduate of Hoover High School in Fresno, California...has brother who plays basketball, track and football and a sister who performs on the track team and basketball court...field of major study at UNLV is journalism...plans to attend graduate school and pursue a career in news reporting...nicknames are "Chi Chi" and "Boom Boom"...birthdate is May 27, 1958.
