LA MI SOLA, LAUREOLA
La mi sola, Laureola
La mi sola, sola, sola,
Yo el cautivo Leriano
Aun que mucho estoy ufano
Herido de aquella mano
Que en el mundo es una sola.
La mi sola, Laureola
La mi sola, sola, sola.

AL AMOR
Dame, Amor, besos sin cuenta
Asido de mis cabellos
Y mil y ciento tras ellos
Y tras ellos mil y ciento
Y después......
De muchos millares, tres!
Y porque nadie lo sienta
Desbaratemos la cuenta
y.......contemos al revés.

DEL CABELLO MÁS SUTIL
Del cabello más sutil
Que tienes en tu trenzado
He de hacer una cadena
Para traerte a mi lado.
Una alcarraza en tu casa,
chiquilla, quisiera ser,
Para besarte en la boca,
Cuando fueras a beber.

COPLAS DE CURRO DULCE
Chiquitita la novia,
Chiquitita la novio,
Chiquitita la sala'
Y er dormitorio,
Por eso yo quiero
Chiquitita la cama
Y er mosquitero

MY AND ONLY, LAUREOLA
My only, Laureola
My only, only, only one.
I, the captive Leriano,
Am so proud
To be wounded by the hand,
The only hand in the world.
My only Laureola,
My only, only, only one.

TO THE BELOVED
Give me, love, kisses without number,
As the number of hairs on my head,
And give me a thousand and a hundred,
And a hundred and a thousand after that,
And after those......
many thousands....give me three more!
And so that no one feels bad...
Let us tear up the tally
and begin counting backwards!

OF THE SOFTEST HAIR
Of the softest hair
Which you have in your braid,
I would make a chain
So that I may bring to my side.
A jug in your home,
Little one, I would like be...
So that I may kiss you
Each time you take a drink.

TINY IS THE BRIDE
Tiny is the bride,
Tiny is the groom,
Tiny is the living room,
Tiny is the bedroom.
That is the why I want
A tiny bed with a Mosquito net.

THE BLESSED VIRGIN'S EXPOSTULATION

Purcell was one of the most significant composers of the Baroque period. He was a master at setting the English language to music. His songs exhibit a human emotion through dramatic expression. His musical style includes recitative, florid passages, and frequent tempo changes to express the text.

Tell Me, Some Pitying Angel is a dramatic piece for solo soprano that includes recitative and aria. The text by Nahum Tate refers to the biblical story found in Luke Chapter 2 that tells of the time when Mary couldn't find Jesus because he had stayed behind at the temple to talk to the Elders. He was just a young boy, and the distress of his mother is well documented in this poem. Purcell masterfully captures the moment with this poignant setting.

Tell me, tell me, some, some pitying angel,
Tell quickly, quickly, quickly say,
Where, where does my soul's sweet darling stay,
In tiger's, or more cruel, more cruel, cruel Herod's way?
Ah! ah! rather, rather let his little little footsteps press
Unregarded through the wilderness, where milder, milder,
Where milder savages resort:
The desert's safer, the desert's safer than a tyrant's court.
Why, why, fairest object of my love, why, why does thou from my longing eyes remove?
Was it, was it a waking dream that did foretell
Thy wondrous birth, thy wondrous, wondrous birth?
No vision, no, no, no vision from above?
Where Gabriel, where's Gabriel now, that visited my cell?
I call, I call, I call “Gabriel! Gabriel! Gabriel!”; he comes not;
Flat'ring, flat'ring hopes, farewell, farewell, farewell, flat'ring hopes, farewell.
Me Judah's daughters once caress'd
Call'd me of mothers the most, the most, the most bless'd;
Now (fatal change!), now (fatal change) of mothers, of mothers most, most distress'd.
How, how, how shall my soul its motions guide,
How, how, how shall I stem, how shall I stem the various, various tide, Whilst faith and doubt my lab'ring soul divide?
For whilst of thy dear, dear sight beguil'd, I trust the God, but oh!
I fear, but oh! oh! I fear the child.

Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart (1750-1819)

MISERA, DOVE SON!...AH! NON SON IO CHE PARLO, K. 360

Shortly after the blazing success of Idomeneo in Munich, Mozart composed this concert aria for the Countess Josepha von Paumgarten. The text is from Metastasio’s libretto for the opera Ezio, which was also set as a complete opera by G.F. Handel. The aria represents Fulvia’s torment from her father’s betrayal which has led to her husband’s incarceration. Tortured by grief and despair, she wishes to join her beloved Ezio in death.

Scena:
Son queste ch’io respiro?
Per le strade m’aggiro
Di Tebe e d’Argo? O dalle greche sponde,
Di tragedie seconde,
Le domestiche furie
Vennero a questi lidi,
Della prole di Cadmo, e degli Atridi?
Là, d’un monarca ingiusto
L’ingrata crudeltà mi empie d’orrore,
D’un padre traditore
Qua la colpa m’aggiacca:
E lo sposo innocente ho sempre in faccia.
Oh immagini funeste!
Oh memoria! Oh martire!
Ed io parlo, infelice, ed io respiro.

Aria:
Ah! non son io che parlo,
È il barbaro dolore
Che mi divide il core,
Che deliar mi fa.
Non cura il ciel tiranno
L’affanno, in cui mi vedo:
Un fulmine gli chiedo,
E un fulmine non ha.

Richard Strauss (1864-1949)

BRENTANO LIEDER

Richard Strauss was a German composer of the late Romantic and early modern eras, particularly of operas, Lieder and tone poems. Strauss was also a prominent conductor. In 1916, after he composed Ariadne auf Naxos on a trip to Scandinavia in 1917, Strauss met soprano Elisabeth Schumann, whose talent inspired Strauss to return to composing Lieder.

For the text of his first Lied in twelve years, Strauss turned to the collection of German folk poetry, Des Knaben Wunderhorn, collected by Clemens Brentano and Achim von Arnim. Mahler’s nine settings of these poems were already well known when Strauss approached the material, though the collection was very popular and known in its own right. Strauss took six poems from Brentano for this cycle, the Brentano Lieder. Though written for Elisabeth Schumann, there is no evidence that she ever performed the cycle in its entirety.

AN DIE NACHT

Heilige Nacht! Heilige Nacht!
Sternengeschoßener Himmelsfrieden!
Alles, was das Licht geschieden,
Ist verbunden,
Alle Wunden
Bluten süß im Abendrot.

Bjelbogs Speer, Bjelbogs Speer
Sinkt ins Herz der trunkenen Erde,
Die mit seliger Gebärde
Eine Rose
In dem Schoße
Dunkler niedertaucht.
Heilige Nacht! zärtliche Braut, zärtliche Braut!
Deine suße Schmach verhüllt,
Wenn des Hochzeitsbechers Fülle
Sich ergießt;
Also fliesst
In die brünstige Nacht der Tag!

ICH WOLLTE EIN STRAUßLEIN BINDEN

Ich wollte ein Straußlein binden,
Da kam die dunkle Nacht,
Kein Blümlein war zu finden,
Sonst hättest du dir’s gebracht.

Translation by John Glen Paton

TO THE NIGHT

Holy night! Holy night!
Star-enclosed sky-peace!
Everything that light divided is connected;
all wounds
bleed sweetly in evening’s red glow.

Bjelbog’s spear, Bjelbog’s spear
sinks into the heart of the drunken Earth, which, with a blissful gesture,
dips a rose
in the womb
of dark desires.
Holy night! Demure bride, demure bride!
Hide your sweet shame
when the wedding goblet’s fullness
is poured out;
thus flows,
into the lustful night, day!

I WOULD HAVE MADE A BOUQUET

I would have made a bouquet
but dark night arrived,
and there was no little flower to be found,
or I would have brought it.
Da flossen von den Wangen
Mir Tränen in den Klee,
Ein Blümlein aufgegangen
Ich nun im Garten seh.
Das wollte ich dir brechen
Wohl in dem dunklen Klee,
Doch fing es an zu sprechen:
»Ach, tue mir nicht weh!

Sei freundlich im Herzen,
Betracht dein eigen Leid,
Und lasse mich in Schmerzen
Nicht sterben vor der Zeit!«

Und hätt's nicht so gesprochen,
Im Garten ganz allein,
So hätt ich dir's gebrochen,
Nun aber darfs nicht sein.

Mein Schatz ist ausgeliehen,
Ich bin so ganz allein,
Im Lieben wohnt Betrüben,
Und kann nicht anders sein

SÄUSLE, LIEBE MYRTHE

Säusle, liebe Mirte!
Wie still ists in der Welt,
Der Mond, der Sternenhirte
Auf klarem Himmelsfeld.
Trotz schon die Wolken gesagt
Zum Born des Liches hin,
Schlaf, mein Freund, o schlaf,
Bis ich wieder bei Dir bin!

Säusle, liebe Mirte
Und träum im Sternenschein,
Die Turzeltärte girdre
Ihre Brud schon ein.
Stille ziemlich die Wolken schaff
Zum Born des Liches hin,
Schlaf, mein Freund, o schlaf,
Bis ich wieder bei dir bin!

Hörst du, wie die Brünnchen rauschen?
Hörst du, wie die Grille zirpt?
Stille, stille, laß uns lauschen,
Selig, wer in Träumen stirbt;

Then down my cheeks flowed
Tears onto the clover -
I saw that one small flower had sprouted up
Now in the garden.

I wanted to pick it for you
Deep in the dark clover,
But it began to speak:
"Ah, do not harm me!

"Be kind-hearted,
Consider your own grief,
And do not let me
die in agony before my time!"

And if it had not spoken so,
in the garden all alone,
I would have plucked it for you,
But now that cannot be.

My sweetheart has not come,
I am so entirely alone.
In love dwells tribulation,
And it can be no different.

WHISPER, DEAR MYRTLE

Rustle, dear myrtle!
How quiet it is in the world,
The moon, the shepherd of the stars
In the bright field of heaven.
Is driving the cloud-sheep already
To the spring of light;
Sleep, my friend, o sleep,
Until I am with you again!

Whisper, dear myrtle!
And dream in the starlight;
The turtle dove has cooed
Her brood to sleep.
Quietly the cloud-sheep float
Toward the spring of light;
Sleep, my friend, o sleep,
Until I am with you again!

Selig, wen die Wolken wiegen,
Wem der Mond ein Schlaftrift singt;
Oh! wie selig kann der fliegen,
Dem der Traum den Flügel schwingt,
Daß an blauer Himmelsdecke
Sterne, wie Blumen pflockt;
Schlaf, träume, fliegen, ich wecke
Bald Dich auf und hin beglückt!

AMOR

An dem Feuer saß das Kind
Amor, Amor
Und war blind;
Mit dem kleinen Flügel fächelt
In die Flammen er und lacht;
Fächle, lachle, schlaffes Kind.

Ach, der Flügel brennt dem Kind!
Amor, Amor
Läuft geschwind!
"O wie mich die Glut durchpeinet!"
Flügelschlagend laut er weinet;
In der Hirtin Schloß entzerrnt
Hülfesreichend das schlaffe Kind.

Und die Hirtin hilft dem Kind,
Amor, Amor
Bös und blind.
Hirtin, sieh, dein Herz entbrennt,
Hast den Schelm du nicht gekannt.
Sieh, die Flamme wächst gescheud.
Hüt dich vor dem schlaffen Kind!

Blessed is he whom clouds cradle,
to whom the moon sings a lullaby;
Oh! how blissfully can he fly,
He who brandishes wings in his dreams,
So that on the blue roof of Heaven
He may pick stars like flowers;
Sleep, dream, fly - I will awaken
You soon and you will be happy!

Translation by Emily Ezust

CUPID

By the fire sat the child
Cupid, Cupid
And was blind;
With his little wings he fans
Into the flames and smiles;
Fan, smile, wily child!

Ah, the child’s wing is burning!
Cupid, Cupid
Runs quickly.
O how the burning hurts him deeply!
Beating his wings, he weeps loudly;
To the shepherdess’ lap runs,
Crying for help, the wily child.

And the shepherdess helps the child,
Cupid, Cupid,
Naughty and blind.
Shepherdess, look, your heart is burning;
You did not recognize the rascal.
See, the flame is growing quickly.
Save yourself, from the wily child!

Achille-Claude Debussy (1862–1918)

QUATRE CHANSONS DE JEUNESSE

Debussy is not only among the most important of all French composers; he was also a central figure in European music at the turn of the twentieth century. In the text On the Interpretation of the Melodies of Claude Debussy, Jane Bathori states the following: "In May of 1926, the Revue Musicale issued a supplement under the title “La Jeunesse de Debussy” (Debussy’s Early Years) containing four unpublished songs taken from the composer’s manuscripts set to the poetry of Verlaine, Banville, and Mallarmé. These songs included a first version of "Clair de Lune" and "Pantomime" to Verlaine texts, as well as "Pierrot" of Théodore de Banville. The fourth song, "Apparition" is set to a poem of Mallarmé.

PANTOMIME
Pierrot, qui n’a rien d’un Clitandre,
Vide un flacon sans plus attendre,
Et, pratique, entame un pâté.

Cassandre, au fond de l’auberge,
Verse une larme méconnue
Sur son nez déshérié.

Ce faquin d’Arlequin combine
L’enlèvement de Colombine
Et piourette quatre fois.

Colombine rêve, surprise
De sentir un coeur dans la brise
Et d’entendre en son coeur des voix.

CLAIR DE LUNE
Votre âme est un paysage choisi
Que vont charmant masques et bergamasques,
Jouant du luth et dansant, et quasi Tristes sous leurs déguisements fantastiques!

Tout en chantant sur le mode mineur
L’amour vainqueur et la vie opportune.
Il n’ont pas l’air de croire à leur bonheur,
Et leur chanson se mêle au clair de lune,

Au calme clair de lune triste et beau,
Qui fait rêver les oiseaux dans les arbres,
Et s’enflamme des étoiles par le bois,
Les grands jets d’eau vélètent parmi les marbres.

PIERROT
Le bon Pierrot, que la foule contemple,
Ayant fini les noces d’Arlequin,
Suet en s’engagent le boulevard du Temple.
Une fillette au souple casquin
En vain l’agace de son œil coquin;

PIERROT
Pierrot, who is nothing like Clitandre, empties a bottle without ado,
and, ever practical, cuts into a pâté.

Cassandre, at the end of the avenue,
sheds an concealed tear
for his disinherited nephew.

That impertinent Harlequin schemes
the abduction of Colombine and whirls around four times.

Colombine dreams, surprised at feeling a heart in the breeze and at hearing voices in her heart.

MOONLIGHT
Your soul is a chosen landscape
charmed by masques and revellers playing the lute and dancing and almost sad beneath their fanciful disguises!

Even while singing, in a minor key,
of victorious love and fortunate living
they do not seem to believe in their happiness,
and their song mingles with the moonlight,

the calm moonlight, sad and beautiful,
which sets the birds in the trees dreaming,
and makes the fountains sob with ecstasy, the tall slender fountains among the marble statues!

Et cependant mystérieuse et lisse
Faisant de lui sa plus chère délice,
La blanche lune aux cornes de taureau
Jette un regard de son œil en coulisse
À son ami Jean Gaspard Deburau.

APPARITION
La lune s’attirait. Des séraphins en pleurs
Riant, l’archet aux doigts, dans le calme des fleurs
Vaporeuses, tirait de murtantes violes
De blancs sanglots glissant sur l’azur des corolles.
-C’était le jour bénit de ton premier baiser;
Ma songerie aimant à me martyriser
S’envolait savamment du parfum de tristesse
Que même sans regret et sans déboire laisse
La cueillette d’un rêve au coeur qui l’a cueilli.
J’aurais donc, l’œil rivié sur le pavé vieilli,
Quand avec du soleil aux cheveux, dans la rue
Et dans le soir, tu m’es en riant apparue
Et j’ai cru voir la lune au chapeau de clarté
Qui jadis sur mes beaux sommeils d’enfant gâté
Passait, laissant toujours de ses mains mal fermées
Neige de blancs bouquets d’étoiles parfumées.

APPARITION
The moon was saddened. Seraphims in tears
Dreaming, bowing at their fingers, in the calm of filigree flowers
Throw dying violas of white sobs
Sliding over the blue of corollas.
It was the blessed day of your first kiss;
My reverie, loving to torture me,
Wisely holds its perfume of sadness
That even without regret and without setback
Leaves the gathering of a dream within the gathering heart.
I wandered then, my eye riveted on the aged cobblestones.
When, with light in your hair, in the street
And in the evening, you appeared to me smiling
And I thought I had seen the fairy with a bat of light
Who passed in my sweet dreams as a spoiled child,
Always dropping from her carelessly closed hand
A snow of white bouquets of perfumed stars.

Dominick Argento (b. 1927)

SONGS ABOUT SPRING

Argento is a leading composer of lyric opera and choral music in the United States. Among his most prominent pieces are the operas Postcards from Morocco, Miss Havisham’s Fire, and The Masque of Angels. Well-known song cycles include Six Elizabethan Songs and From the Diary of Virginia Woolf, the latter of which earned him the Pulitzer Prize for Music in 1975. Argento’s music combines tonality, atonality and a lyrical use of twelve-tone writing. He is particularly well-known for his sensitive settings of complex, sophisticated texts, such as his setting of E. E. Cummings’ poetry for his song cycle, Songs About Spring.
WHO KNOWS IF THE MOON'S A BALLOON

who knows if the moon's
a balloon, coming out of a keen city in the sky--filled with pretty people?
(and if you and i should get into it; if they should take me and take you into their balloon, why then

we'd go up higher with all the pretty people than houses and steeples and clouds:

go sailing
away and away sailing into a keen city which nobody's ever visited, where always it's Spring and everyone's in love and flowers pick themselves

IN JUST SPRING

in Just-spring when the world is mud-luscious the little lame balloon
whistles far and wee

and eddy and hill come running from marbles and piracies and it's spring

when the world is puddle-wonderful the queer old balloon man who
whistles far and wee
and betty and i come dancing

from hop-scootch and jump-ropes and

it's spring
and the goat-footed balloon man who

whistles far and wee

SPRING IS LIKE A PERHAPS HAND

Spring is like a perhaps hand
(which comes carefully out of Nowhere) arranging a window, into which people look whilst people stare arranging and changing placing carefully there a strange thing and a known thing here)
and changing everything carefully

spring is like a perhaps Hand in a window (carefully to and fro moving New and Old things, while people stare carefully moving a perhaps fraction of flower here placing an inch of air there) and without breaking anything.

IN SPRING COMES

Spring comes (no one asks his name)
A mender of things
With eager fingers (with patient eyes)
Renewing remarking what otherwise we should Have thrown away (and whose brook bright flower soft bird quick voice loves children and sunlight and mountain) in April (but if he should Smile) comes nobody'll know.

WHEN FACES CALLED FLOWERS FLOAT OUT OF THE GROUND

when faces called flowers float out of the ground

and breathing is wishing and wishing is having but keeping is downward and doubting and never

-it's April, yes, April, my darling it's spring!
yes the pretty birds frolic as spry as can fly
yes the little fish gambol as glad as can be

(yes the mountains are dancing together)

when every leaf opens without any sound and wishing is having and having is giving but keeping is doting and nothing and nonsense

-alive we're alive, dear it's (kiss me now) spring!
now the pretty birds hover so she and so he now the little fish quiver so you and so i

(now the mountains are dancing, the mountains)

when more than was lost has been found has been found and having is giving and giving is living

but keeping is darkness and winter and cringing

-it's spring (all our night becomes day), it's spring!
all the pretty birds dive to the heart of the sky
all the little fish climb through the mind of the sea (all the mountains are dancing, are dancing)

FERNANDO OBRADORS (1897-1945)

SELECTIONS FROM CANCIONES CLÁSICAS ESPAÑOLAS

Fernando Jaumandreu Obradors was a Spanish composer who was taught piano by his mother, but taught himself composition, harmony and counterpoint. Between 1921 and 1941 he wrote four volumes of arrangements of classic Spanish poetry. One of the poems, “La casada infiel”, was written by his friend Garcia Lorca. Although he wrote many works for the theatre, none have held their place in the repertoire. He is best known for “Canciones clásicas españolas”, a song-cycle. Many of his contemporaries left Spain to find fame in France, but Obradors remained true to his Catalan roots.
