UNLV "Rebels" -vs- WEBER STATE "Wildcats"

TODAY'S GAME

"A beautiful dream, a new stadium, and a new era"

On September 14, 1968, the University of Nevada, Las Vegas played the first football game in the school's history at Cashman Field in downtown Las Vegas. The Rebels beat St. Mary's 27-20 behind the passing of Bill Casey to begin what has already been an exciting football history.

Now, four seasons and 32 battles later, the Rebels play a game which is THE most exciting event since coach Bill Ireland put his first team on the field back in 1968. Today's game in the new Las Vegas Stadium is the culmination of a dream which existed even in the Rebs humble beginning, and it is the start of a whole new era in UNLV football. The new stadium is a tribute to the UNLV athletic department, the school's Rebels Club, and the large number of Las Vegas residents who have backed the University's program the past few years in a manner which puts UNLV in select company.

This afternoon also has to be a very special occasion for the Rebel coaches and players who were also part of that historic first game against St. Mary's. This group includes Ireland and assistants Roger Barnson, Doug Carder, and Bill Daniel. There are also nine players remaining who were in uniform on September 14, 1968. These Rebs are Larry Trosi, Charles Cooper, Mike Gutowski, David Neff, Bruce Gray, Jim Valline, Marty Macy, Tommy Rowland, and Nathaniel Hawkins (to find out what they think about the new stadium see the "Rebelgrams" on page 18).

In this first game in the new facility UNLV is meeting one of the finest teams the Rebels have ever challenged. Weber State comes into today's game with an undefeated record (4-0-1), a national ranking, and the best rushing attack in the country for College Division teams. The Wildcats switched to the "Whisbone-T" for the 1971 season, and the result has been a crunching ground attack which has accounted for 380 yards per game. In last week's NCAA statistics this was 30 yards better than the second best College Division rushing offense.

Weber State's present success has come as something of a surprise, because this was supposed to be a rebuilding year for the Wildcats. Last year they went 5-5-1 and graduated all but six of their regulars. With the installation of a new offense and defense, and over 50 new players on the squad, everyone close to Weber's program figured it would take at least a year to put everything together.

However, the newcomers have proved to be exceptional, as the season record indicates. The four leading ground gainers in the punishing offense are junior college transfers (Jim Nichols, Rick Bojak, Terry Bulych, and Al Butler), and since the second half of the second game of the year the vital quarterbacking job in the Wishbone attack has been the responsibility of another JC transfer (John Edwards).

One standout who is not a newcomer is defensive back Randle Anderson, whose skill at returning punts has given Weber State a second mark which leads the NCAA College Division statistics. Anderson was the national leader last week with an average return of 26.4 yards, and he had run back two punts for touchdowns, including one for 94 yards.

This is the official University of Nevada, Las Vegas Rebels football program, published by the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics for all home games. Pictured above are two aerial shots of the Las Vegas Stadium taken during the summer. On the left is a shot taken in April which shows the roof off the dressing room, the field still unleveled, and the stands far from completed. The picture on the right was taken two months later in June. At that time the field had been cleared off, the roof was on the dressing rooms, and the West stands were nearly completed. (Thanks to Bob Lamkin for piloting the plane and Frank Mitrani for the pictures.)

We've got five different kinds of wagons. One for every kind of wagon buyer.
Wagons with different kinds of tailgates especially designed for convenience. Including one that vanishes—the window into the roof, the gate under the floor. Out of sight. Out of your way.
Wagons that seat four, six, eight, nine or as many as twelve. If you like, our Sportvan can even be converted to sleep up to six. We're serious when we say we want your 1972 Chevrolet wagon to be the very best wagon you ever owned.

REBEL

GRAMS

Congratulations to junior tailback David Woodly and wife Sandy on the birth of daughter Kymtana Danielle. .born Oct. 9, 1971, the same day UNLV defeated Santa Clara.

A special Rebel thank you to all our fans who were at Cashman Field on Sept. 14, 1968, when UNLV football got its start and who are here today for the opening of the new stadium. .we have all come a lot further than the mileage between the two fields.

This is the first of four straight home games for the Rebels and we invite you to come back and enjoy UNLV football at Las Vegas Stadium. .coming up is New Mexico Highlands, Cal Poly (SLO), and U. of North Dakota.

Do you remember what Rebel football was like in 1968, the year the program began? The following players remember, because they were there, and here is what they think about the new Las Vegas Stadium.

Charles Cooper. .this is a big step for us. .it is a visible sign that we have accomplished a great deal and I am proud to have been part of it.

Mike Gutowski. .I have heard talk about a new stadium since I was a sophomore at Rancho High and now we finally have one. .it is a great thing for the Las Vegas Valley, and it is like a brand new sport is beginning.

Bruce Gray. .this is really a fine accomplishment. .now we have something of our own, and this new home for the Rebels is a start of something great.

Nathaniel Hawkins. .I have been here for four years and I have always looked forward to playing this particular game. .it is a small step for Nathaniel Hawkins and a big step for UNLV.

Marty Macy. .Playing here means that we now have a real football program and this is the first game in UNLV history. .it is a big step for the Rebels and I am sure it is the beginning of a lot more support.

David Neff. .Those of us who have been here since the beginning have been looking forward to this day and now that it has arrived we can all say the wait has been worthwhile.

Tommy Rowland. .This is the greatest thing that has ever happened and I am really proud to be part of it. .in the future this will be one of the major stadiums in the county and today will make for a great memory.

Larry Trosi. .Moving to the new stadium as compared to the beginning of our program is like the difference between day and night. .I don't feel like I have been playing since 1968, this is like the first game I ever played in.

Jim Valline. .This is the beginning of a new era in UNLV football. .it means bigger crowds, more support, and a better schedule. .we have come a long way from Cashman Field.

The LOMBARDI Award

The Vince Lombardi - Rotary Club of Houston

SECOND LOMBARDI LINEMAN AWARD TO BE PRESENTED JANUARY 14

The player voted college football's "Outstanding Lineman" for the 1971 season will be honored next January 14, at the second annual Vince Lombardi Awards Banquet in Houston, Texas. The Lombardi Award, sponsored by the Rotary Club of Houston, will go to the player chosen by a select committee of coaches and sportswriters from throughout the country.

Recipient of the first Lombardi Award was Jim Stillwagon of Ohio State. He was selected from finalists including Larry Di Nardo of Notre Dame, Chip Kell of Tennessee and Rock Perdoni of Georgia Tech. All were in attendance at the first Lombardi Awards Banquet.

The Lombardi Award for linemen is unique in that a player, to be eligible, must be an offensive or defensive lineman, end-to-end, setting up no further than 10 yards to left or right of the ball; or a linebacker setting up no further than five yards deep from the line of scrimmage.

Designed by artist Mark Storm, the award is a 45-pound mounted block of granite symbolizing self-discipline, the trademark of the Lombardi style of football. Lombardi's first fame was as a member of the Fordham line that sportswriters dubbed the "Seven Blocks of Granite".

The award was conceived following Mr. Lombardi's death from cancer in September, 1970. Mrs. Marie Lombardi, the coach's widow, authorized the Rotary Club of Houston and the American Cancer Society to establish the award, the only collegiate award authorized by the Lombardi family in honor of her late husband.

Proceeds from the Vince Lombardi Awards Banquet go to support the American Cancer Society's research program.

JOHN GOLDEN

His Job: Protecting the President

by DICK HERBERT, President, Football Writers Association of America

John Golden at work

Roman Gabriel and John Golden were co-captains of the North Carolina State freshman football squad in 1958.

Today, Gabriel, as a professional quarterback, plays before thousands and before millions of television watchers.

Golden's name is not known to the sports fans around the nation, but he, too, performs before huge crowds and is seen by millions on the TV screen. But the less he is noticed, the better is his performance. His high school and college football background helps him as much in his work as it does for Gabriel.

John, you see, is in his fifth year as one of the key protectors of the President's safety. His assignment with the Secret Service is the White House and its resident family.

To the former end and javelin and discus thrower, it is the most important job there is; and it is one where his football training is a valuable asset. Physical and mental discipline are needed now just as they were in his days of playing the game.

"I guess it sounds a little corny," Golden comments, "but you learn in football that if you relax or rest for just a second it can mean six points for the other team. In this work, a rest of a second could be fatal.

Disciplines Related

"Being disciplined physically helps in being disciplined mentally. They go hand in hand.

"I know that my football training in high school (Northeast Catholic in Philadelphia) and college has helped me in having the state of mind needed for the alertness and self-discipline my work requires.

"I make a point of staying physically fit—in fact, I weigh about 180 now compared to the 210 I played at in college."

In guarding the President, he says, strength is needed at some times and quickness at others. Oddly enough, it is the friendly crowd that usually causes the most problems. It surges forward in its enthusiasm and sometimes gets out of hand.

The worst experience John had in this respect came during President Nixon's visit to Ireland. "I was driving the Secret Service car that follows directly behind the President's car," Golden recalls, "and some of the well-wishers got up on the hood of my car and I couldn't see anything. In Rumania there was another huge friendly crowd that got too close."

Presidential Family Cooperative

Golden and his fellow workers find the Nixon family very cooperative. "They try not to notice us," he points out, "which is what we want. But they listen when we ask them to do certain things that will help us."

John was the driver of President Nixon's car in Spain when a fellow passenger was President Franco of Spain. "I had heard about Franco all my life," he says. "Naturally, having him in the car with President Nixon and with me at the wheel was something I won't forget."

Pro football stars travel a lot, but Gabriel has not logged the miles of his former teammate.

"I've been around the world six times," says John. "Each year there are new countries to which my work takes me."

His most difficult assignment in the five years was that of guarding a presidential candidate rather than the chief executive.

In the last election campaign, John was assigned to Governor George Wallace of Alabama for six months of whirlwind campaigning. "That was difficult because some of the crowds were angry," he recalls.

Fortunately, there have been no real close calls in the five years of constant pressure. "It is the most important work I will ever attempt," believes Golden. "I thoroughly enjoy what it means."

The travel and schedule are demanding and leave little time for family (wife Jo Anne and John David 6 and Tracy 5). John expects to be transferred to another assignment that will not take him away as much.

He will welcome that, but the five years of the present assignment will be remembered fondly for a lifetime.

Football helped make it possible.

THANK YOU . . . Grand Club, Century Club and Scholarship Donors
