TONIGHT'S GAME

UNLV VS NORTHEAST LOUISIANA

By Dominic Clark
UNLV Sports Information Director

OLLIE KELLER
NLU Coach

Things don't get any easier for the UNLV football team as the Rebels host a tremendously tough Northeast Louisiana team tonight. UNLV is 3-1 following last Saturday's narrow 7-3 loss to Utah State while the Indians come in with a 1-0-2 record after just beating the 13th ranked Northwestern State (La.) University, 16-13.

Ron Meyer is hoping to bounce back this week after the hard-fought loss to the visiting Aggies and tonight's clash is a pivotal one for UNLV as the Rebels need a victory here to ready themselves for the remainder of the strong 1973 schedule.

NLU, coached by Ollie Keller, is a bigger, more physical team than Utah State and has two of the top running backs in the nation in Matthew Williams (No. 32) and Joe Ricky Mitchell (33). Both of them have rushed for over 100 yards a game and in last weekend's upset triumph over NSU, Williams picked up 88 yards on 15 carries and workhorse Mitchell totaled 117 on 34 carries.

The Indians opened up the season with a 15-15 tie with perennial small-college power Troy State and then, playing on the road, tied major college opponent, Mississippi State, 21-21. Mississippi State, it should be noted, as gone on to defeat Vanderbilt, 55-21 and the University of Florida, 33-13.

UNLV has done well in posting its 3-1 record thus far, and the team has some credible statistics to bear this out.

Definitely a running team, UNLV is averaging 321 yards a game in total offense while holding opponents to 175 (including only 76 yards a game rushing). The Rebels are scoring 28 points a game while holding foes to a meager seven per contest and the alert defensive secondary has picked off seven aerals to four by Rebel challengers.

Speedy junior tailback Mike Thomas continues his frantic rushing pace as he carried 34 times (UNLV record) against Utah State for 137 net yards. For the season he now has 488 net yards on 98 carries for a 5.0 per carry average and five touchdowns.

Defensively, strong safety Sonny Brockman, leads the Rebels in hits, tackles, assists, and interceptions and overall, the defensive unit of coaches Vince Zimmer, Doug Carder, Ralph Readout and Dave Madison has done a superb job against some of the toughest opposition UNLV has ever faced.

Seven UNLV single game individual and team records have now fallen and two more have been tied. Against Utah State, Thomas set his record for most carries (34), the team had the fewest yards gained passing (58) and defensive safety Jimmy Andrews picked off two Aggie aerals to tie that mark.

HOW FUTURE REBEL FOES FARED LAST WEEKEND:

NORTHEAST LOUISIANA (1-0-2) 16, Northwestern State 13; BOISE STATE (3-0) 64, Portland State 7; Western Illinois 28, U. The Best Of Trivia

BY TERRY SHONKWILER
Publicity Director — Showboat Hotel

This week we will make a departure from our usual sports trivia and enter into another realm of useless knowledge . . . that of old movies, television, radio and the comics.

Perhaps nostalgia belongs to the children of the fifties more so than any other generation. It was a time of domestic tranquility and technical change. The radio was still a part of American family life, but that new invention, television was flickering in more and more homes. Saturday afternoon was spent at the movies where a dime bought a triple feature, four cartoons and a serial. And of course every extra nickel went for a Superman Comic or bubble gum cards.

Perhaps because times seemed simpler then, at least for the kids growing up in the sleepy midwest, these things stuck with you. You knew Batman was really millionaire Bruce Wayne or that "Uncle Miltie" was sponsored by Texaco.

Now with advent of the seventies life moves at a faster pace. No longer can you find a movie for a dollar, let alone ten cents. Radio, as we knew it then, has disappeared entirely, and television has become the dominant influence in communications.

Now the children of the fifties look back to those days of Allen's Alley, The Shadow and Big John and Sparky with fond memories. This is nostalgia or trivia. Those insignificant things that were so important while we were growing up. No wonder so many of us can remember the words of the "Bosco" jingle but not our sister's birthday.

And so it is that trivia, or as the dictionary defines it, "Unimportant matters" is so much fun. Because those things were a part of growing up, which was, and is still so much fun.

So, "return with us now to those thrilling days of yesteryear. From out of the past come the thundering hoofbeats of the great horse Silver. The Lone Ranger rides again . . ."

1. What were the names of the original men on the street on the old Steve Allen Show?
2. Who was Gene Autry's sidekick on television?
3. What song did Humphrey Bogart ask Sam to play again in "Casablanca"?
4. What was the name of Hopalong Cassidy's horse?
5. What are the names of Walt Disney's cartoon chipmunks?
6. Who manufactures Crayolas?
7. Who played Yancy Derringer's faithful Indian companion on T.V.?
8. Who sang, "How much is that doggie in the window?"
9. Who was the eccentric inventor in Donald Duck comics?
10. What was the Green Arrow's real identity?

Introducing the 1974 Chevelle Malibu Classic.
 Luxury just stopped being a spectator sport.

That's right. This is a 1974 Chevelle. The brand-new Malibu Classic.
 Which means that now you can do a whole lot more than look at luxury cars in football programs. You can participate. At any Chevrolet dealer's.
 All this, for the price of a Chevelle.

Chevrolet. Building a better way to see the U.S.A.

Las Vegas Stadium is a beautiful little place. It has pretty shubbery, nice grass, and the seats inside are painted with an artist's conception of color.

There is only one problem with Las Vegas Stadium: its accessibility.

So we have to make it more accessible (I hope everyone is following this complex, mind-boggling logic).

Here are some easy-to-follow hints for getting to the game on time:

1. RENT A HELICOPTER -- Costly, but very fashionable. Impresses the hell out of your friends. For full effect, make a deal with the pilot to land on the 50-yard line right after pre-game warmups.

2. TAKE THE HENDERSON ROUTE -- Clever idea, this one. Instead of following those poor saps bumper to bumper on Boulder Highway, sneak out the freeway to the Henderson cut-off and cagily come in from the east instead of west. Only trouble is, this route is about 20 miles further if you live in North Las Vegas, and you would have to leave at noon.

3. BUG YOUR FRIENDLY COMMISSIONER -- Pick a county commissioner and sit on his doorstep until he promises to vote for another access road. Fifteen thousand people going down the same road takes a long time, especially when that road is busy in the first place.

And last, but not least, we have something immediately practical.

4. GET UP OFF YOUR DUFF AND LEAVE EARLY -- Bring a van, a six-pack, your girl and close the curtains in the stadium parking lot at 7 p.m. How much could it hurt to leave home at 6:30? There's not even anything good on TV then. The only people who have excuses are the ones that work almost right up until game time. And if everybody else used a teaspoonful of horse sense, they would already be at the stadium so the people who had to come late would have access to the road by themselves.

The choice is yours: Splendor in the Parking Lot or Fender Benders on the highway.

UNLV Scene

BY MARK HUGHES
Information Director

A police officer these days pounds a mighty tough beat.

He must know the law and apply it with firmness and equity. He must understand people, be sensitive to their shortcomings, forceful when there is crisis.

Because the job of the average patrolman or deputy has become so complex, the University of Nevada, Las Vegas has started a new four-year degree program in law enforcement, designed chiefly for people in the field or about to enter it.

Program Coordinator John Horvath, a veteran of the military police, said the bachelor's degree program authorized by the last legislature will focus on the reasons behind the criminal laws as well as the special problems of enforcing them in a modern society.

"The police officer of today has taken on many new responsibilities, so we must provide him with a better education," Horvath said. "Nowadays, when an officer gets to the scene, he's more likely to use common sense and psychology rather than a nightstick."

Horvath was referring to the countless civil assignments such as settling family disputes, calming angry crowds and other social services which take up about 70 per cent of the time of the typical police officer.

With the expansion of the law enforcement curriculum at UNLV from a two-year associate program into a full-fledged major, a second faculty member has been hired to handle the additional classroom instruction and training.

She's Jessie B. Carnevale, a former practicing attorney who comes to UNLV from the University of Arizona where she taught classes in criminal justice, juvenile law and psycho-pathology.

"An officer has to be more than a mere ticket writer, he must learn to think on his feet," she says. "The best law enforcement comes from men and women who know the reasoning behind legislation and who can gauge the needs of the people they serve."

Dr. Carnevale brings a wide background in law and social services to the campus. In Arizona, she was a lecturer in law enforcement and criminal justice at the Tucson Police Academy and at the Pima County Juvenile Court Center. For several years, she has offered legal aid to indigents without pay.

"She's an ideal addition to our staff," Horvath stated. "She knows the intricacies of the law and has a vast background in dealing with both the police and with lawbreakers."

TRIVIA ANSWERS . . .

1. Louis Nye was Gordon Hathaway, Tom Poston was the forgetful one and of course N. D. (Nervous Don) Knotts.
2. Pat Buttram was Gene's jovial sidekick.
3. The song to be played again was "As time goes by."
4. Hoppy's horse was the beautiful white stallion, "Topper".
5. Walt's mischievous chipmunks were Chip and Dale.
6. The makers of Crayolas are Binney and Smith, as everyone knows.
7. Yancy's pal was played by "X Brands", who played the part of Pahoo Katawa.
8. The girl who wanted a doggie was "That singing rage, Miss Patti Page".
9. Donald's inventor friend was none other than Gyro Gearloose.
10. The Green Arrow was really Oliver Queen, whose sidekick, Roy Haper was known and loved as "Speedy."

NCAA Reorganizes Itself into Three Divisions

by DAVE DANIEL, NCAA News Editor

Some folks think the National Collegiate Athletic Association's reorganization into three divisions is much like ordering from a menu in a Chinese restaurant—with One you get football; or with Two you may choose one from Division I.

Actually, the NCAA remains the same—only the names have been changed.

The Constitution remains a single document, applicable to all members. The reorganization allows for each division to adopt amendments to the Bylaws applicable only to that specific division without the approval of any other division.

Each NCAA member institution will select its division through self-determination, except in the sport of football, in which Division I membership will consist of those 126 institutions currently classified as "major" by the Football Statistics and Classification Committee.

Self-determination is a key phrase. Many think that Division I membership is restricted to those 126 "major" teams. However, an institution may classify itself Division I in all sports other than football. Fordham University would be a prime example. Its program, except football, is Division I. Its football team is classified Division III.

To Each His Own

The members of each division may establish criteria for membership in that division subsequent to self-determination.

An institution in Division II or III may elect to participate in Division I in one sport, other than football or basketball, and must abide by the Division I Bylaws which govern the sport in question, even though the institution's membership rests in another division. An example could be Pan American University, which could have an overall Division II program, but could elect to participate in Division I in baseball, its strongest program.

There are numerous other examples, also, and it's possible that some institutions could compete in all three divisions in different sports. An institution's football team could be classified Division III, it could self-determine Division II for its overall program, and still choose Division I for one sport.

No matter what division an institution competes in, it will have a much better opportunity to compete in a National Collegiate Championship event.

The NCAA will sponsor a minimum of 39 National Championships by the 1975-76 year with at least 10 Championships in each of the three divisions.

Only one National Championship will be conducted in the sports of fencing, hockey, skiing, indoor track, volleyball and water polo. All member institutions are eligible to compete in the above Championships under eligibility rules of the division they elect for their overall program through 1975-76. After that, the member institution and its individual athletes must be eligible under the governing legislation for the division conducting the championship.

Each of the three divisions will have National Championship competition in the sports of baseball, basketball, cross country, golf, soccer, swimming, tennis, outdoor track and field and wrestling.

In addition, Divisions II and III will have a National Championship tournament in football.

Gymnastics and lacrosse championships will be sponsored in Divisions I and II and members of Division III will be eligible for the Division II championship in these sports.

In individual events, certain place winners from Division II and III championships who meet the qualifying standards will be eligible to compete in Division I competition, providing such individuals have met all academic and eligibility requirements of Division I, including academic standards for initial participation. For example, the top five finishers in the Division II and Division III cross country championships will be eligible to compete in the Division I championship.

Movement Possible

An institution may change its division membership by petitioning the NCAA Council if it meets the established criteria for membership in the division it wishes to be transferred to.

The Council itself will be restructured to give each division representation.

The Council will retain its 16-member make-up, but each NCAA District shall have a vice-president and eight vice-presidents will be elected at-large.

Among the 16 vice-presidents, eight will be from Division I members and four each will come from Divisions II and III. The president and secretary-treasurer will be ex officio members of the Council, as they currently are, and they may be elected from any division.

The Executive Committee will also be restructured with five members being elected from Division I and three from Divisions II and III with each division being represented by at least one member.

All standing committees of the NCAA will be evaluated with a view towards providing representation to each division where appropriate. Specifically, each of the three divisions shall be represented on all rules committees. This will be accomplished after the Association's 68th annual Convention in January in San Francisco, where the implementing legislation will be presented.

The reorganization plan was considered to be a vital course of action for the NCAA. "It will enable our members to enact rules which pertain to their own competition," said NCAA President Alan J. Chapman. "It will make the NCAA an even more valuable force in intercollegiate athletics."

REBEL FOOTBALL: COMMENTS

By DOYLE E. SMITH
Las Vegas SUN Sports Writer

Avid University of Nevada, Las Vegas football fans are the first to admit it takes a lot of pull -- pulling together -- to finance a successful athletic program.

The many man-hours -- woman-hours, too -- required to land the right coach, the super-athletes, able assistants, etc., is only a small portion of the king-sized task to provide the type of team grid buffs will be proud of and support.

Ronald S. Meyer, young and vibrant, sometimes controversial but always flamboyant, was hired as head pigskin boss in early February of this year.

The 32-year-old coach has a zest for speed in attaining the goals of his gridiron philosophy:

"I only know one way to go," he declared upon his arrival. "Swing from the hips and let it fly.

"Let's go first class. I anticipate a steady growth at a stable and constant pace."

Meyer came to Las Vegas from Dallas where he was one of six talent scouts for the Cowboys for the past two years. Prior to that, he was an assistant coach at Purdue University from 1965-1970.

Meyer is the first to admit it takes more than "superior knowledge" of the game to produce a winner. He does not profess to be a miracle worker.

First, the personable mentor offers: "Thank God for a great staff of assistants. Without their dedication my task would be impossible."

And, Meyer laments, without the assistance of former head coach and now athletic director Bill Ireland, "we would be no where."

"You know, it takes the help of everyone -- including the ticket sellers, program pushers and hot dog salesmen -- to make our program a success."

Humans, by their very nature, are "habit forming" Meyer notes. "We want every football fan -- man, woman and child -- to get into the habit of supporting our program and watching football, 'The Las Vegas Way'."

Obviously, the bubbling personality of Meyer has had its infectious moments. Midway in his initial campaign the head coach barely has time to pause and reflect.

But, he does offer this:

"We're going to be a winner and we're going to become known as the greatest football town with the greatest football fans ever."
