UNLV: Rapid Growth with Excellence

In just 18 years, UNLV has blossomed from a single small building beside a dirt road into a beautiful 300-acre campus with a well-qualified faculty of over 325 professors and a student body whose fall enrollment topped the 8,100 mark.

Students may enroll in any of 65 degree programs on the bachelor's and master's level offered by the school's 32 academic departments. In addition, the school's first doctoral program got under way in the College of Education as a joint effort between UNLV and the University of Nevada, Reno.

One of the country's finest physical education centers opened its doors this past spring — the Paul McDermott Physical Education Center. The $6 million facility, complete with two full-size gymnasiums, a 50-meter indoor swimming pool, handball courts, and training and equipment rooms.

Two major facilities are now under construction on the ever-growing campus. A 2,000 seat Artemus Ham Concert Hall is scheduled for completion early next year and a $5 million Life Science Building is set to open during the summer of 1976.

The theatre arts department's production of "The House of Bernarda Alba" was selected in the American College Theatre Festival as one of the nation's top ten plays for 1974. It was performed in the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C. at the Festival.

Dr. Donald Baepler President

Appointed as the third president of UNLV in February, 1974, Dr. Donald H. Baepler had previously served the university for five years as academic vice president and had twice guided the institution as acting president.

A biologist who teaches at least one class each semester while still carrying out his numerous administrative duties, Dr. Baepler is a Rebels Club member and an energetic booster of all UNLV athletic endeavors.

He came to UNLV in 1968 from Central Washington State College in Ellensburg where he was dean of administration. During his eight year tenure there, he served successively as chairman of the biology department and assistant to the president.

His special area of study is ornithology, the study of birds, and he has conducted research in nearly every part of the continental United States and in the jungles of Guatemala providing data on bird life for such agencies as the National Audubon Society, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the National Science Foundation. In addition, he was recently elected president of the Zoological Society of Nevada, the parent organization of the Las Vegas Valley Zoo.

Bill Ireland Athletic Director

Currently enjoying his third year as Director of Intercollegiate Athletics for the Rebels after founding the Rebel football program is UNLV Athletic Director Bill Ireland.

Under head coach Ireland, the Rebels compiled a 26-23-1 overall record including a near-perfect 8-1 mark in the first season of competition in 1968. After leading the Rebels to four straight winning seasons, Ireland has taken giant strides toward building UNLV into a major athletic powerhouse in all aspects of intercollegiate athletics.

A native Nevadan, (he was born in McGill on April 29, 1927) who maintains a constant sense of community service, Ireland was instrumental in getting the Las Vegas Stadium built (it opened in the fall of 1971) and no one has worked harder or more successfully in putting the community behind the still young athletic program.

A complete family man, he is married to the former Jeanne Brunetti and has seven children: Chris, Kelly, Kimberly, Kerry, Michael, Patrick, and Terrence.

Barbara Quinn Women's Athletic Director

The "First Lady" of women's athletics at UNLV is Barbara Quinn. Last year she doubled as the Director of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women and as the head basketball coach and this year she has relinquished her coaching duties to devote herself fulltime to her pressing administrative duties.

Quinn came to UNLV from Ursinus College in Collegeville, Pennsylvania where she earned her B.S. degree in Health and Physical Education. She received her M.A. degree in Physical Education from Trenton State College in New Jersey.

She knows what it takes to be a winner as is evidenced by her impressive coaching record of 137 victories against 20 losses and one tie while coaching lacrosse (39-2), basketball (65-19), field hockey (21-2-1), and softball (20-4) in eastern high schools and colleges.

Last year Quinn guided UNLV to an 8-7 record in basketball while overseeing UNLV's women participate in swimming, track and field, and tennis.

This year, Quinn has added cross country to the women's intercollegiate program and two girls, Liz Kuzara and Sherry Quinlivan, qualified for the AIAW National Championships in Ames, Iowa in November.

Next year, Quinn hopes to add volleyball to the women's ever-growing program.

Roger Barnson Assistant Athletic Director

Working diligently as UNLV's first assistant athletic director is Roger Barnson. He spends most of his time behind the scenes as the business manager for UNLV's 15 intercollegiate sports. He, too, is in his third year as an athletic administrator. He served as Bill Ireland's right hand man for five football seasons, coaching the secondary, before moving up with Ireland to the administration level.

The personable Barnson is a native of Southern Nevada. He was born on December 27, 1938 in Boulder City and was All-State in football and baseball for three straight years at Boulder City High. He attended Arizona State University on a baseball scholarship, pitching for the legendary Bobby Winkles, and then turned down several pro offers for a coaching career.

He worked at Western High in Las Vegas as an assistant for three years in football and baseball and got his first shot at the head spot in football when Clark High opened in 1965. In three seasons, his wife Chargers compiled a 17-8-0 mark. Barnson and his wife Tina have two children: daughter Leigh Alison and son Roger Jr.

Dan Ayala Head Coach

What does a jovial "Merry Mexican" gentleman who has coached men's basketball for 14 years do when he becomes the women's head basketball coach at one of the West's leading universities? Dan Ayala, a former assistant coach to major college's winningest coach — Jerry Tarkanian, puffs on his ever-present cigar, smiles warmly, and talks incessantly about his young feminine squad.

Proud as a brand new father, Ayala is, to say the least, very enthused about being a head coach again. For the past two seasons he has been the co-ordinator of scheduling and an assistant coach for UNLV basketball. Before that he spent a dozen years as a head coach on the high school, junior college, and collegiate levels, compiling a 185-79 record.

He had a 48-22 record in four years at Beaumont High School in California, a 57-18 mark in three years at Mt. San Jacinto College, and a 72-18 record for three seasons at Pasadena City College. Following a successful two year stint as head coach at Cal Poly, Pomona, Ayala became a UNLV Rebel.

He has never coached a women's team before, but he is approaching the 1975-76 campaign as he does every upcoming season — with hard work and energy.

Ayala and his wife Linda now have enough boys around the house to field a team of their own. Their five children are twins Brian and Steven (10), Randy (8), Daniel (6), and David (6 months).

1975-76 OUTLOOK

UNLV has all the ingredients which make up a winning basketball team.

Well-balanced, with speed, good shooters from both the field and the charity stripe, strong rebounders, a superb defense, and a winning coach are all strong points for the Rebels as they head into their second year of intercollegiate women's basketball.

In addition, UNLV has expanded its schedule for 1975-76 and will face the likes of USC, UCLA, University of Kansas, University of Colorado, University of Hawaii, Arizona State, and University of Arizona.

The youthful Rebels have no seniors on this year's team but are by no means an inexperienced team. Five girls started on last year's 8-7 team, six are junior college transfers, and four played on the high school level last year.

Returnees include last year's leading scorer Emma Jean Major (16.2 points per game); play maker Jackie Alford, who averaged 14.5 points and contributed 44 assists; starting center Jill Adamson, 10.3 points and 10.9 rebounds per contest; Tona Lytle, 8.6 points per game; and Renee Brown.

Three of the incoming junior college transfers, Donna Wick, Debra Waddy, and Liz Galloway were all members of last year's National Junior College Champions at Temple Junior College. The other two junior college transfers are Clara Campsey (Ranger Junior College) and Lyn Gehrke (Pima Community College).

Freshman newcomers are Diane Fuller, Connie Gooch, Patti Montgomery, and Shelia Powell.

Any one of the girls should be able to carry the load and head coach Dan Ayala expects that nine or 10 will be seeing action every game.

PLAYER PROFILES

No. 10, Jackie Alford, 5-2, SO, G — The second leading scorer and the playmaker off last year's team, she averaged 14.5 points per game and added 44 assists while earning her letter. From Long Island, New York, she is a very fine ballhandler and will add a lot to the Rebel team with her quickness and good defense. Law Major. Birthdate: 1-15-52.

No. 11, Diane Fuller, 5-5, FR, G-F — Comes to UNLV from Basic High in Henderson where she lettered in basketball, softball, and volleyball in each of her four high school years. She shows great desire and possesses good fundamentals. Learning all the time, she will be a strong addition to the squad. Math and PE Major. Birthdate: 12-25-57.

No. 12, Emma Jean Major, 5-6, SO, G-F — Another local product (Valley High School), she was the leading scorer last year with a 16.2 points per contest average and the leading rebounder with a 13.0 average. She is extremely quick, very physical, and has a good jumper. She has been improving on her shooting and will be a contender for a starting position. PE Major. Birthdate: 7-11-53.

No. 13, Tona Lytle, 5-3, JR, G — A tremendous addition to the squad, she played in all 15 games last year and averaged 8.6 points. From Lincoln County High School in Pioche, her attitude, hustle, and fine team play are her biggest assets. An all-around athlete, she played basketball, softball, track, and volleyball in high school. PE Major. Birthdate: 5-5-55.

No. 14, Shelia Powell, 5-3, FR, G — A very fine talented girl who is going to be a fine collegiate guard, maybe the best in the school's history before she's out. Another local product (Rancho High School in North Las Vegas), she was twice selected Most Valuable Player by her coaches and was twice named to the all-conference team. She earned four letters in softball and basketball and coach Ayala says "how quickly she can learn will determine how good she will be in the future." PE Major. Birthdate: 9-23-57.

No. 15, Renee Brown, 5-6, SO, G — A 1974 graduate of Basic High School in Henderson, she earned eight letters in high school in basketball, softball, and volleyball. She is very quick and very fast and is expected to be a contender for a starting berth. She will definitely see lots of action this year. PE Major. Birthdate: 5-7-56.

No. 22, Clara Campsey, 5-4, JR, G — A very athletic person from a very athletic family. At Devine High School in Devine, Texas she earned 11 letters in basketball (4), volleyball (4), and track (3). She has nine brothers and two sisters and each one has participated in some kind of sport. She comes to UNLV via Ranger Junior College and is very tough mentally with an excellent attitude. A very good shooter and a good ball handler she will also provide the Rebels with some good leadership. PE Major. Birthdate: 9-2-54.

No. 23, Jill Adamson, 5-8, SO, C-F — A very excellent center from Rancho High in North Las Vegas, she averaged 10.3 points per game for UNLV last year and grabbed 10.9 rebounds per outing. She executes offensive fundamentals very well and is pushing for a starting position this year at either forward or center. She will definitely see a lot of action. PE Major. Birthdate: 8-1-56.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS AT UNLV

"You've come a long way, baby" aptly describes the UNLV women's intercollegiate program.

Last year was the first year of women's intercollegiate athletics at UNLV and it can only be described as successful. The Rebel women participated in three intercollegiate sports on the varsity level and in one more on the club sport level. Basketball, tennis, and track and field were all full varsity sports last year while swimming and diving operated as a club team.

In basketball, the Rebels finished with an 8-7 mark under Barbara Quinn. In tennis, UNLV was a member of the Western Collegiate Tennis Conference and in track and field UNLV sent four women to the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) National Track and Field Championships in Corvallis, Oregon.

This year, swimming and diving is now a varsity team and the Rebel women have added cross country to their ever-growing family of varsity sports. In cross country, UNLV had two girls qualify for the AIAW Nationals in Ames, Iowa.

In the future, UNLV plans to add volleyball and gymnastics to its roster of women's varsity sports.

UNLV has a full-time women's athletic director, full-time coaches in each sport, nationally renown trainers, and a $6.3 million dollar physical education complex which it calls "home." All of these combine to make UNLV "the place to be" in women's athletics.

LAS VEGAS CONVENTION CENTER

UNLV's women's basketball team will play six of its home games in 1975-76 at the 6,257 seat Las Vegas Convention Center as preliminary games prior to the nationally-ranked UNLV basketball squad's games.

The Las Vegas Convention Center is one of the finest basketball arenas in the country. It features ample parking, theatre-type cushioned seats, and a tremendous hardwood court.

These women-men doubleheaders will give UNLV basketball fans a good chance to view both the men's and the women's programs.

On January 24, UNLV fans will be treated to a tripleheader as the UNLV Junior Varsity will face El Camino at 4 p.m., the women play University of Utah at 6 p.m., and the Rebel varsity squares off against University of Nevada, Reno at 8:15 p.m.

The women-men doubleheaders will begin on January 29. The women will play Arizona State at 6 p.m. and the men face Seattle University at 8:15. On the following evening, the women play University of Arizona while the men play Pepperdine University. In a St. Valentine's Day twinbill, February 14, the women face Utah State and the men play Centenary.

On March 1, University of Kansas will play the Rebel women and St. Mary's will meet the Rebel Varsity. The final doubleheader will feature the women against U.C. Santa Barbara and the men will end the regular season against Loyola/Marymount.

PAUL MC DERMOTT PHYSICAL EDUCATION CENTER

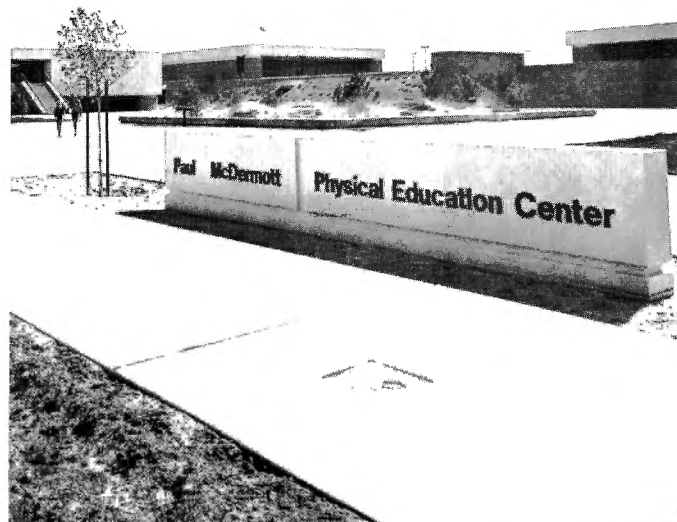

Home, sweet home for the UNLV Rebels is the beautiful $6.3 million dollar Paul McDermott Physical Education Center which opened last spring.

The McDermott Center brings to UNLV a 50-meter indoor swimming pool, two gymnasiums, eight handball courts, classrooms, offices, and special facilities for dance, arts and crafts, gymnastics, and weight training.

Designed as a teaching center, there are limited amounts of spectator seating for the pool, gymnasiums, and handball courts.

The facility's swimming pool is fully equipped to serve as a championship natatorium in collegiate and olympic competition. It features a moveable bulkhead so that its length may be varied according to the requirements of the race or the classroom. Underwater, there are viewing ports so that television may be used to record action beneath the surface and to enable instructors to see their swimmers and divers from that advantageous perspective.

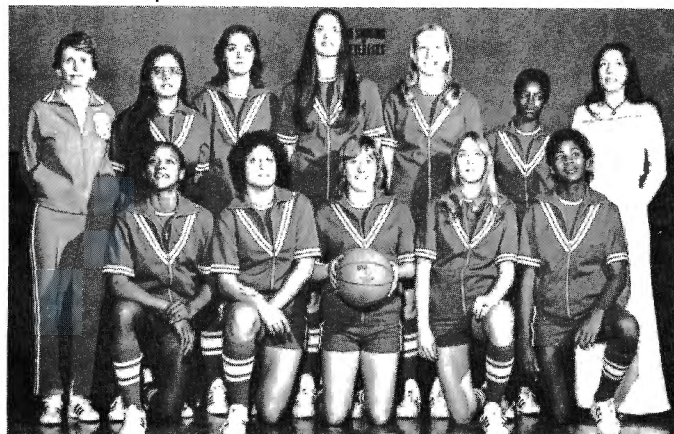

Named in honor of a former regent, athletic booster, and leading Las Vegas business man, the center is the second phase of the project. The first phase was completed two years ago and included tennis courts, a nine-lane tartan track, a baseball field, and recreation and practice areas.
